SCORES KILLED BY LANDSLIDES

DEMOCRAT LEADERS TARGET OF ATTACKS FROM MANY SOURCES

Rank And File Not In Tune With Promise Of Cooperation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—It became apparent today that Democracy's "big seven," among them Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis, James M. Cox, and John J. Raskob, took in a little too much territory when they issued their famous post-election statement last week pledging legislative cooperation with the Hoover administration during the present period of economic depression.

Criticism of the statement today broke to the surface in a way that indicates the Democrats are headed for a bit of family strife.

Senator Glass (D) of Virginia, a former secretary of the treasury, and rated a most conservative Democrat, said he did not subscribe to the statement of the seven, nor approve of the spirit behind it. That Glass voted the sentiment of quite a bloc of other Democrats is well known.

Pointing out that the Democrats had won a sweeping victory in the last election because of the voters' dissatisfaction with administration policies, Glass said:

"In the face of this, it does not seem to some of us exactly appropriate for anybody to suggest that we should do nothing if trusted with power, to molest administrative policies which have proved disastrous at home and caused us to be hated abroad."

"Of course, no sensible Democrat desires or intends to obstruct any sound governmental proposal merely for the satisfaction of embarrassing a political adversary. At the same time, no Democrat should be willing to engage in any apologetics to bridge his traditional faith merely to avert the fear of persons who think their illicit sanctions and special privileges may be taken away."

Glass' remarks were a thrust at the Hawley-Smoot tariff law, although he did not mention it by name.

The capital was awaiting with interest today the reply that Senator Robinson is to make to President Hoover concerning the possibility of an extra session of the 72nd congress immediately after March 4 next. Mr. Hoover wrote the Democratic leader a letter a few days after the statement was issued requesting definite assurance the minority would not seek to compel an extra session by blocking necessary appropriation bills. Robinson is in Arkansas and has not replied.

Mr. Hoover, it appears, is extremely anxious to avoid an extra session after his experience with the last one.

There is a very considerable sentiment in Democratic and Republican insurgent ranks in favor of just such a session.

The Democrats of the Glass type feel that one may be desirable to correct "some of the evils" of the last session, at the head of which they list the new tariff law.

The agricultural bloc, with an eye on grain prices now lower than for twenty-five years, feels the same way about the question of farm relief.

The short session of congress opening on December 1 is to see the debut of equalization fee plans again brought up, and a hard fight waged for their enactment. Probably the effort will fail in the short session left of the 71st congress, and in that case the proponents of the plans want to see a special session of the 72nd congress called immediately to put it over.

LAND BURNING PLANE SAFELY

Endurance Flight Is Terminated

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—John S. Donaldson and Edward Weimer, attempting to establish a new air-plane endurance record, narrowly escaped death today when their plane the "American Legion" caught fire off Jamaica Bay. Donaldson, who was at the controls, succeeded in piloting the flaming and smoking plane to earth and after landing the ship dragged Weimer to safety.

Weimer suffered lacerations when the plane was brought to a landing but his injuries were not serious.

Donaldson said he thought a spark from radio equipment on the plane caused the fire, igniting gasoline which had been spilled in a refueling contact shortly before. The plane was completely destroyed.

Donaldson and Weimer took the air yesterday afternoon and had planned to stay aloft 1,000 hours.

MAL DAUGHERTY FACING ARREST ON NEW INDICTMENTS; JUDGE TO REMAIN

WASHINGTON, C. H., O., Nov. 13.—Mal S. Daugherty, former president of the defunct Ohio State Bank here, was to be re-arrested today as the result of two new indictments handed down by the Fayette County grand jury late Wednesday.

Daugherty is at liberty under a $40,000 bond following his recent arraignment when he pleaded not guilty to allegations of mishandling the bank's funds. These allegations are contained in fifteen indictments returned by the grand jury last month.

The indictment returned Wednesday contain five counts which accuse Daugherty of misapplying credit and funds of the bank and with making false entries and reports. A warrant for his arrest was issued after the new indictments, making seventeen in all, were announced.

At the close of a hearing here Wednesday, Chief Justice C. T. Marshall, of the Ohio Supreme Court, rejected Daugherty's application for the removal of Common Pleas Judge Harry M. Rankin as presiding judge at a hearing on Daugherty's application to abate the indictments which were handed down October 13.

The grand jurors were discharged, subject to call, and were subpoenaed to appear at the abatement hearing.

FIVE SUSPECTS HELD FOLLOWING SHOOTING DURING $60 HOLDUP

Two Bandits Murder At- tendant At Gas Station

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 13.—Police held five men here today in connection with the shooting of John Kramer, 50, gasoline station attendant, last night when he attempted to resist two bandits who robbed the station of about $60.

Kramer was shot in the left arm when he failed to act promptly at one of the gunmen's commands. His condition was reported as not serious at Grant Hospital today.

The five men arrested during the night for questioning in the robbery and shooting were George Butler, 23; Will Stevenson, 38; Oscar Martin, 33, and Jack Pullman, 27, all colored, and Joe Willis, 22, white.

The bandits escaped under a fusillade of gun fire from a revolver in the hands of C. L. Schall, one of the owners of the gas station. Schall who lives nearby, heard the shooting and was approaching the station when the robbers started their escape.

Kramer and a friend, Allen Miller, 24, were in the station when the men entered and asked the price of kerosene, and then ordered a half gallon. As Kramer was getting the order, the bandits pulled guns and ordered Kramer and Miller into a rear room. After emptying the cash drawer, the bandits ordered them to come out and when Kramer hesitated, one of them fired.

PARTIES PLEDGED TO ECONOMY PLAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Republican and Democratic leaders on the house appropriations committee both pledged themselves today to economy in making up the big annual supply bill for next year, but differed upon the probable expenditures of congress.

Rep. Will R. Wood (R) of Indiana, committee chairman, said that appropriations may be cut a little under last year, but added this calculation might be upset if extraordinary expenditures are voted for public buildings and other unemployment relief work.

Rep. Joseph Byrne (D) of Tennessee, ranking minority member, predicted the total appropriations will go beyond five billion dollars, with congress sure to make huge outlays for public works.

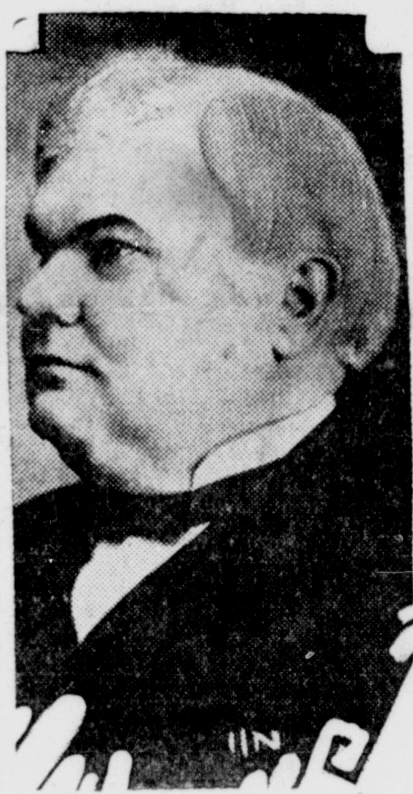

VALUE OF UTILITIES IN OHIO INCREASED

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 13.—An aggregate valuation of $1,704,350,060 was placed by the state tax commission today upon the properties of public utilities in Ohio for taxation purposes. This is an increase of $30,429,260 over the valuation that the commission placed upon similar properties last year.

Ohio's total tax duplicate, including real estate, tangible personal property and such intangibles as are returned for taxation, is $13,500,000,000. Of this amount, 13 per cent represents properties owned by public utilities.

The first installment of taxes, based upon these valuations, will be due and payable December 20. The second half will be due June 30, next year.

WILL GET FREEDOM

Bert B. Buckley, above, former treasurer of Ohio, has been granted a parole from the federal penitentiary for conviction of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws. The parole takes effect November 20.

CORONER TO DECIDE CAUSE OF DISASTER AT OHIO COAL MINE

Witnesses Agree That Gas Caused Blast Near Athens

MILLFIELD, O., Nov. 13.—Testimony of twenty-five witnesses of the explosion at number six mine of the Sunday Creek Coal Co. here, which took a death toll of eighty-three persons a week ago, was in the hands of Coroner L. J. Jones, of Athens County, today as he prepared a verdict as to the direct cause of the disaster.

Most of the witnesses who have been examined agreed on the theory that the blast resulted from gas, but there were differences of opinion as to the origin of its ignition.

Coroner Jones said he would be ready to issue a verdict within a few days.

Only one definite theory was advanced. Andrew Ginnin, deputy mine inspector, said that a gas deposit probably was exploded by an open carbide lamp worn by members of an official inspection party.

J. J. Forbes, of Pittsburgh, supervising engineer of the United States Bureau of Mines, division of safety, declared "indications are very strong that this was a gas explosion initiated by dust." The exact cause could not be determined, he said, until a thorough investigation had been completed.

E. W. Smith, chief state mine inspector, agreed with Forbes that gas, propagated by dust, probably caused the explosion.

TREASURY BALANCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Treasury statement as of Nov. 11: Treasury balance, $126,571,396.55. Expenditures, $10,510,113.09. Customs receipts, $12,396,143.14.

RECOUNTS OF VOTES WILL BE NECESSARY FOR FIVE CONTESTS

Expect Challenge Of Pickrel's Lead Over Brown

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 13.—Possibility of recounts of votes cast in at least five close contests at the polls in Ohio November 4 loomed today.

With former Lieutenant Governor William G. Pickrel, Dayton, Democrat, now holding only a 600-vote lead over Lieutenant Governor John T. Brown, Republican, for the lieutenant governorship, an announcement of the final official result by Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown may prompt the loser to demand a recount. Brown is expected to make the official announcement Friday or Saturday.

Preliminary steps for a recount of the votes for sheriff of Lawrence County were taken late Wednesday when the secretary of state ordered these votes impounded. Unofficial returns show that Ernest W. Bennett, Republican, defeated Owen Harmon, Democrat, for this office by 435 votes. Formal application for the recount was made by Attorney E. L. Riley, of Ironton, who filed the required bond.

A recount of the votes cast for congressman in the fourteenth district, comprising Summit, Medina, Portage and Lorain Counties, will start Tuesday and will consume ten days or two weeks. Dow Harter, Democrat, who, on the face of unofficial returns, was defeated by Congressman Francis Seiberling, Republican, by 400 votes, asked for the recount.

Secretary Brown announced that Harter and Seiberling may have inspectors at the offices of each election board in the district during the recount.

An announcement has been made by Charles Sawyer, Cincinnati, Democratic nominee for congress in the second district, that he will demand a recount of all congressional votes in that district. The unofficial returns give Congressman William E. Hess, Republican, a lead of 779 votes over Sawyer.

A recount of the votes cast in Crawford County for state senator may be made by the election board of that county. Unofficial figures give the representation in the Ohio senate from the thirteenth district to Senator Robert L. Rohe of Tiffin, Republican, and Ralph Sugrue, Democrat, also of Tiffin, by close margins.

The Crawford County election board, it is reported, has discovered that approximately sixty votes in one ward in Bucyrus were not entered upon the tally sheet. A similar situation, it was said, may exist in other precincts in that county.

The other senatorial candidates in that district were John P. Bowser, Democrat, and Dallas Sullivan, Republican.

HOMES BURIED UNDER DEBRIS DURING NIGHT

Victims In French Vil- lage Crushed To Death In Sleep

LYONS, France, Nov. 13.—

Between forty and 100 persons lost their lives and scores were injured today when a disastrous series of landslides demolished dozens of homes and buildings in the densely populated St. Jean district of Fouvieres, a suburb of Lyons, one of France's largest and most important industrial centers.

Among the dead were nineteen firemen and seven policemen who were caught by a second slide after the first avalanche had torn its path of destruction down the hillside on which St. Jean nestles.

The first slide occurred shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, and was caused by the unexpected collapse of a wall of the St. Jean Hospital, situated almost at the summit of the hill. Throughout the night, other slides occurred, halting rescue work and causing additional death and destruction.

The convent of Notre Dame De Simon, a large apartment house and two blocks of old homes, each housing several families, were destroyed by the avalanche. Among the victims were nuns who were sleeping in the convent when the hurtling earth brought the structure down about their heads.

As the electricity was cut off by the first slide, rescuers worked by flickering torchlight, laboring bravely in the face of death from new landslides in an effort to rescue scores of injured who were trapped in the shambles of their homes.

One of the earliest officials on the scene was Edouard Harviel, former premier of France and for many years mayor of Lyons. He rose from a sick bed to direct the work of rescue. He has been suffering from an attack of intestinal gripe.

All available police and firemen, as well as the entire military detachment stationed at Lyons, were rushed to the scene of destruction. Heavy rains are believed to have weakened the earth at the top of the hill, enabling the falling hospital wall to start tons of dirt and masonry on their downward path of destruction.

OHIO MUST ENLARGE INSANE HOSPITALS

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 13.—Six thousand additional beds will be needed in Ohio's hospitals for the insane in the next decade, it was revealed here today in a report submitted by welfare Director Hal H. Griswold to Governor Myers V. Cooper's welfare advisory commission.

The estimate, it was said, was based upon mathematical computations made by the welfare department's mental hygiene council. The ratio of patients in state hospitals for the insane is 250 for each 100,000 of the state's population.

Griswold said that the 6,000 additional beds would take care of the normal increase in patients, due to the general increase in the state's population and also would raise the various institutions to the proper ratio in the areas they serve.

FIVE KILLED

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 13.—Five men were killed at a mine of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co., at Anxox, B. C., when a rock slide buried a bunk house in which they were sleeping, according to reports received here today.

FIREMAN TELLS DRAMATIC STORY OF SLIDES

LYONS, France, Nov. 13.—A dramatic story of the difficulties encountered by rescue workers in the series of landslides which killed scores in the St. Jean district of Lyons early today was told to International News Service by Pierre Baux, a fireman who narrowly escaped death in the disaster.

The company to which Baux is attached arrived on the scene a few moments after the first landslide.

"We managed to get half-way up the hill along the Rue Transac when we found the roadway blocked by hundreds of tons of debris," he said.

"We jumped off our truck and lit emergency torches. At that moment we heard the agonized screams of women, and by the flickering light of our torches, we saw the walls of the Hotel Petit Versailles start to waver."

"I rushed to the truck to get a scaling ladder, and in the meantime other members of the com-

WRITES NEW SERIAL STORY

Mrs. Webster, Author Of "Dad's Girl," Also Wrote "Joretta" To Start In This Paper

EDNA ROBB WEBSTER, popular serial story writer, returns to the pages of THE GAZETTE.

This announcement should be pleasing information to readers of this paper, who were so enthusiastic over Mrs. Webster's first serial published by THE GAZETTE, "Dad's Girl," which was published recently.

Her latest effort is a love story, "Joretta," publication of which will start the first of next week immediately following the present serial, "It Was Locked," which is drawing to an exciting close.

Joretta is the personification of a gallant modern girl. She has been dominated and managed all her life by her mother, but she is clever in her own right. Torn between loyalty to her mother and her love for Jim Norton—what did she do?

The answer is written in a fascinating manner by Mrs. Webster and it is certain her new story will have wide appeal. Watch for it starting next week.

PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR CONGRESS WILL AVOID CONTROVERSY

Schedule Only Bills And Unemployment Re- lief

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—A tentative legislative program for the "lame duck" session of the seventy-first congress, which convenes Dec. 1, features appropriation bills and unemployment relief measures while banning all controversial matters, it was learned today.

The tentative program, submitted to President Hoover by Senator McNary of Oregon, assistant Republican leader of the senate, would sidetrack the world court, all prohibition measures resulting from the anticipated report of the Wickersham law enforcement commission and some highly important bills, still pending from earlier sessions of the same congress. McNary was to confer again with the President during the day and may get Mr. Hoover's final approval of the program.

Unless the President desires action on other legislation, the program would simply include:

1.—Passage of the nearly $5,000,000,000 of departmental and bureau appropriation bills, necessary for operation of the government during the fiscal year, beginning next July.

2.—Speeding the government's public works program, by ordering immediate expenditure of previously authorized funds on public buildings, flood control, inland waterways projects and federal roads.

3.—Final enactment after ten years of the Norris Muscle Shoals bill, providing for government operation of the $100,000,000 project and fertilizer plant in Alabama.

The desire of leaders of all factions to avoid controversial legislation so that the session can be devoted to solving the unemployment problem, probably will delay world court action for another year.

All leaders also agree they must avoid a battle over prohibition. Consequently, there seems little likelihood of action on any recommendation of the Wickersham commission, particularly if that body should propose a loosening of the dry law.

The Muscle Shoals legislation, over which senate and house have fought for a decade, may be settled peacefully.

WESTERVILLE, O., Nov. 13.—Thirty girl employees of the Kilgore Manufacturing Co., were forced to the street here today when fire broke out in the packing room of the plant.

DAYTON FIRE CHIEF
INJURED AT BLAZE

DAYTON, O., Nov. 13.—Fire swept the West Side Lumber Co. here today causing damages estimated at $20,000 and resulting in injuries to Fire Chief Ramby and Fireman George Conaway.

Investigation was started immediately to determine the cause of the conflagration.

Ramby and Conaway were injured while fighting the blaze. Their conditions were not serious, it was said.

FORMER TREASURER OF STATE TO OBTAIN RELEASE NEXT WEEK

Had Another Year To Serve On Sentence For Conspiracy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Bert B. Buckley, former state treasurer of Ohio, who was sentenced to serve two years and six months in Atlanta penitentiary upon his conviction on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, has been granted a parole.

The department of justice announced today his parole will be effective November 20. He had one year yet to serve.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13.—Bert B. Buckley, former state treasurer, who was granted parole today from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, was convicted and sentenced to prison in March, 1929, by Judge Benson W. Hough, of the federal district court here.

His case, which was one of the most sensational in Ohio's administration history, attracted nationwide attention as the "beer-drivers-bribe" affair.

Buckley, who was disbarred from practicing law in Ohio after he had been forced to resign as state treasurer, was sentenced March 14, 1929, to serve two years, six months and one day in the federal prison and to pay a fine of $1,000.

He carried the case to the highest tribunal in the state but the conviction and sentence of the federal court was upheld in each instance.

Joseph Sperber, Cincinnati brewmaster, self-confessed co-conspirator of Buckley, was sentenced to four months in the Hamilton county jail and was fined $200.

FEDERAL DRY AGENT WILL FACE CHARGES RESULT OF CONDUCT

Raid In Columbus Re- sults In Case Against Agent

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 13.—Transcripts of testimony concerning charges of unbecoming conduct and irregular discharge of duties against Federal Prohibition Agent L. J. Lockhart, of Columbus, were expected to be filed at Washington, D. C., today with federal prohibition administrator, A. W. Woodcock.

The testimony was taken at a hearing before United States Commissioner Joseph W. Horner of last week. Statements concerning a fruitless liquor raid on Rigot's home here the night of last October 10 were made by Agents Don S. Clark and Arthur Haines.

The raiding party consisted of Lockhart, Clark and Haines. Rigot alleged that the agents, acting under order of Lockhart, forcibly entered his home by breaking in a door, and that Lockhart used abusive and indecent language in the presence of Mrs. Rigot and their 5-year-old child.

Lockhart threatened to "kick Mrs. Rigot down stairs," Rigot charged.

Lockhart was not at the hearing Wednesday. He was said to have been in Cincinnati. Commissioner Horner dismissed the case against Rigot because no liquor had been found on his premises.

United States District Attorney William Bartels scored Lockhart for action unbecoming a federal operative.

BLAME BOOTLEG WAR FOR DEATH

Legger Murdered On Doorstep Of Home

WOOSTER, O., Nov. 13.—Sam Monaco, 50, reputed bootlegger, was shot to death by an unknown assailant as he stood in the doorway of his home here today.

Three of the five bullets fired from an automatic pistol wielded by the assailant entered Monaco's body. He died almost instantly.

Police offered the belief that Monaco's death was the result of a bootleg warfare. An intensive police search was launched in an attempt to apprehend the assassin.

The shooting occurred, police said, when Monaco opened the front door of his home in response to a knock. The gunman immediately opened fire and after shooting five bullets, made his escape down the street.

LYONS, France, Nov. 13.—Between forty and 100 persons lost their lives and scores were injured today when a disastrous series of landslides demolished dozens of homes and buildings in the densely populated St. Jean district of Fouvrieres, a suburb of Lyons, one of France's largest and most important industrial centers.

Among the dead were nineteen firemen and seven policemen who were caught by a second slide after the first avalanche had torn its path of destruction down the hillside on which St. Jean nestles.

The first slide occurred shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, and was caused by the unexplained collapse of a wall of the St. Jean Hospital, situated almost at the summit of the hill. Throughout the night, other slides occurred, halting rescue work and causing additional death and destruction.

The convent of Notre Dame De Simon, a large apartment house and two blocks of old homes, each housing several families, were destroyed by the avalanche. Among the victims were nuns who were sleeping in the convent when the hurtling earth brought the structure down about their heads.

As the electricity was cut off by the first slide, rescuers worked by flickering torchlight, laboring bravely in the face of death from new landslides in an effort to rescue scores of injured who were trapped in the shambles of their homes.

One of the earliest officials on the scene was Edouard Herriot, former premier of France and for many years mayor of Lyons. He rose from a sick bed to direct the work of rescue. He has been suffering from an attack of intestinal grippe.

All available police and firemen, as well as the entire military detachment stationed at Lyons, were rushed to the scene of destruction. Heavy rains are believed to have weakened the earth at the top of the hill, enabling the falling hospital wall to start tons of dirt and masonry on their downward path of destruction.

OHIO MUST ENLARGE INSANE HOSPITALS

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 13.—Six thousand additional beds will be needed in Ohio's hospitals for the insane in the next decade, it was revealed here today in a report submitted by welfare director Hal H. Griswold to Governor Myers V. Cooper's welfare advisory commission.

The estimate, it was said, was based upon mathematical computations made by the welfare department's mental hygiene council. The ratio of patients in state hospitals for the insane is 250 for each 100,000 of the state's population.

Griswold said that the 6,000 additional beds would take care of the normal increase in patients, due to the general increase in the state's population, and also would raise the various institutions to the proper ratio in the areas they serve.

FIVE KILLED

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 13.—Five men were killed at a mine of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. at Anux, B. C., when a rock slide buried a bunk house in which they were sleeping, according to reports received here today.

WRITES NEW SERIAL STORY

Mrs. Webster, Author Of "Dad's Girl," Also Wrote "Joretta" To Start In This Paper

EDNA ROBB WEBSTER, popular serial story writer, returns to the pages of THE GAZETTE.

This announcement should be pleasing information to readers of this paper, who were so enthusiastic over Mrs. Webster's first serial published by THE GAZETTE, "Dad's Girl," which was published recently.

Her latest effort is a love story, "Joretta," publication of which will start the first of next week immediately following the present serial, "It Was Locked," which is drawing to an exciting close.

Joretta is the personification of a gallant modern girl. She has been dominated and managed all her life by her mother, but she is clever in her own right. Torn between loyalty to her mother and her love for Jim Norton—what did she do?

The answer is written in a fascinating manner by Mrs. Webster and it is certain her new story will have wide appeal. Watch for it starting next week.

AUTHORITIES BAFFLED BY ABSENCE OF CLEWS TO BOMBING OUTRAGE

PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR CONGRESS WILL AVOID CONTROVERSY

Schedule Only Bills And Unemployment Re- lief

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—A tentative legislative program for the "lame duck" session of the seventy-first congress, which convenes Dec. 1, features appropriation bills and unemployment relief measures while banning all controversial matters, it was learned today.

The tentative program, submitted to President Hoover by Senator McNary of Oregon, assistant Republican leader of the senate, would sidetrack the world court, all prohibition measures resulting from the anticipated report of the Wickersham law enforcement commission and some highly important bills, still pending from earlier sessions of the same congress. McNary was to confer again with the President during the day and may get Mr. Hoover's final approval of the program.

Unless the President desires action on other legislation, the program would simply include:

- 1.—Passage of the nearly $5,000,000,000 of departmental and bureau appropriation bills, necessary for operation of the government during the fiscal year, beginning next July.

- 2.—Speeding the government's public works program, by ordering immediate expenditure of previously authorized funds on public buildings, flood control, inland waterway projects and federal roads.
- 3.—Final enactment after ten years of the Norris Muscle Shoals bill, providing for government operation of the $100,000,000 project and fertilizer plant in Alabama.

The desire of leaders of all factions to avoid controversial legislation so that the session can be devoted to solving the unemployment problem, probably will delay world court action for another year.

All leaders also agree they must avoid a battle over prohibition. Consequently, there seems little likelihood of action on any recommendation of the Wickersham commission, particularly if that body should propose a loosening of the dry law.

The Muscle Shoals legislation, over which senate and house have fought for a decade, may be settled peacefully.

WOMEN FLEE FLAMES

WESTERVILLE, O., Nov. 13.—Thirty girl employees of the Killgore Manufacturing Co. were forced to flee the street here today when fire broke out in the packing room of the plant.

Purdue Professor Is Fighting For Life; Knows No Motive

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 13.—An almost complete absence of tangible clues today served to baffle authorities in their search for an explanation of the bomb explosion which mangled W. F. Heidergott, Purdue University instructor in practical mechanics.

Heidergott, fighting for his life in St. Elizabeth's Hospital here, told police he knew of no motive that might explain the terrific explosion which interrupted the instructor's efforts to start his automobile yesterday.

The bomb itself was a crude device encased in a gunny sack and ignited by a three foot fuse. The assailant had placed the explosive on the gear housing of Heidergott's automobile in his private garage. Heidergott said he had noticed the gunnysack and fuse on entering the garage, but thought little of it. The blast occurred three minutes after he entered the garage.

Authorities were seeking a possible connection between the attempt on Heidergott's life and the recent activity of Marion, Indiana, bombers whose operations killed five labor union members under similar circumstances last year.

The explosion mangled the instructor's face, tore his clothes from his body and paralyzed his right shoulder and arm.

ONE KILLED IN HAVANA RIOTS

HAVANA, Nov. 13.—One person was dead, several were injured, and many students were under arrest today as a result of new rioting which broke out here last night.

Mercedes Barbarosa, 25 years old, died today of wounds received while watching the riots from the balcony of her home near the downtown district. The exact number of injured had not been determined today.

Riots occurred throughout Havana following an unruly demonstration in front of the office of the newspaper El Pais, in which one student and one policeman were injured.

DAYTON FIRE CHIEF INJURED AT BLAZE

DAYTON, O., Nov. 13.—Fire swept the West Side Lumber Co. here today causing damages estimated at $20,000 and resulting in injuries to Fire Chief Ramby and Fireman George Conaway.

Investigation was started immediately to determine the cause of the conflagration.

Ramby and Conaway were injured while fighting the blaze. Their conditions were not serious, it was said.

FORMER TREASURER OF STATE TO OBTAIN RELEASE NEXT WEEK

Had Another Year To Serve On Sentence For Conspiracy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Bert B. Buckley, former state treasurer of Ohio, who was sentenced to serve two years and six months in Atlanta penitentiary upon his conviction on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, has been granted a parole.

The department of justice announced today his parole will be effective November 20. He had one year yet to serve.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13.—Bert B. Buckley, former state treasurer, who was granted parole today from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, was convicted and sentenced to prison in March, 1929, by Judge Benson W. Hough, of the federal district court here.

His case, which was one of the most sensational in Ohio's administration history, attracted nationwide attention as the "beer-warehouse bribery" affair.

Buckley, who was disbarred from practicing law in Ohio after he had been forced to resign as state treasurer, was sentenced March 14, 1929, to serve two years, six months and one day in the federal prison and to pay a fine of $1,000.

He carried the case to the highest tribunal in the state but was convicted and sentenced to the federal court was upheld in each instance.

Joseph Sperber, Cincinnati brewmaster, self-confessed co-conspirator of Buckley, was sentenced to four months in the Hamilton county jail and was fined $200.

FEDERAL DRY AGENT WILL FACE CHARGES RESULT OF CONDUCT

Raid In Columbus Re- sults In Case Against Agent

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 13.—Transcripts of testimony concerning charges of unbecoming conduct and irregular discharge of duties against Federal Prohibition Agent L. J. Lockhart, of Columbus, were expected to be filed at Washington, D. C., today with federal prohibition administrator, A. W. Woodcock.

The testimony was taken at a hearing before United States Commissioner Joseph W. Horner of Ladore Rigot. Statements concerning a fruitless liquor raid on Rigot's home here the night of last October 10 were made by Agents Don S. Clark and Arthur Haines.

The raiding party consisted of Lockhart, Clark and Haines.

Rigot alleged that the agents, acting under order of Lockhart, forcibly entered his home by breaking in a door, and that Lockhart used abusive and indecent language in the presence of Mrs. Rigot and their 5-year-old child.

Lockhart threatened to "kick Mrs. Rigot down stairs," Rigot charged.

Lockhart was not at the hearing Wednesday. He was said to have been in Cincinnati. Commissioner Horner dismissed the case against Rigot because no liquor had been found on his premises.

United States District Attorney William Bartels scored Lockhart for action unbecoming a federal operative.

BLAME BOOTLEG WAR FOR DEATH

Legger Murdered On Doorstep Of Home

WOOSTER, O., Nov. 13.—Sam Monaco, 50, reputed bootlegger, was shot to death by an unknown assailant as he stood in the doorway of his home here today.

Three of the five bullets fired from an automatic pistol welded by the assailant entered Monaco's body. He died almost instantly.

Police offered the belief that Monaco's death was the result of a bootleg warfare. An intensive police search was launched in an attempt to apprehend the assassin.

The shooting occurred, police said, when Monaco opened the front door of his home in response to a knock. The gunman immediately opened fire and after shooting five bullets, made his escape down the street.

attorney and former state legislator, pleaded guilty to the same charge and was given a term in the Atlanta penitentiary.

The case was brought before the public in January, 1929, and continued for more than three months before it was finally disposed of. The case was the outgrowth of a raid by federal prohibition agents October 5, 1928, when the beer plot was started. The agents raided the Jackson Brewery Co., at Cincinnati and found beer containing more than the legal percentage of alcohol.

Sperber, brewmaster of the company, retained John L. Schrimper as his attorney. Schrimper was reported to have gone to Adolph "Dolly" Gruber, who agreed to "see what he should do about it."

Buckley was convicted of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws and accepting a bribe in connection with the Jackson brewery case. He faced a maximum sentence of twenty-eight years and a maximum fine of $25,000.

Specification was made by Judge Hough that Buckley serve out his fine in the Montgomery County jail at Dayton, his home, in default of payment of the $1,000 fine. The ex-state treasurer paid the fine.

GEORGE GARVER IS CALLED BY DEATH

Funeral services for George Garver, 75, who died at his home in Osborn Wednesday morning at 2:30 o'clock, will be held at the home Saturday at 2 p. m., followed by services at the Osborn Presbyterian Church at 2:30 o'clock. Burial will be made in Fairfield.

Mr. Garver is survived by his widow, Clara Belle; three sons, Charles, Springfield; George Jr., Dayton and Harry, at home; five daughters, Mrs. Laura M. Ott, Mrs. Elmer Snell and Mrs. S. W. Gray, all of Dayton; Mrs. Rolla Boggs, Sulphur Grove and Mrs. Frank Kendrick, Osborn.

Troop No. 45, Boy Scouts of America, will dispense with its regular meetings until further notice, it is announced. Because of lack of heat local Scout troops will not hold meetings at the Scout cabin north of Cox Athletic Field during the winter months. Instead plans are being made to conduct the meetings down town in Xenia, possibly in an unoccupied room on W. Main St.

VINCENT BENDIX

President and Chairman of the Board, Bendix Aviation Corporation of Chicago and New York, operating Bendix Brake Company, South Bend, Indiana; Eclipse Machine Company, Elmira, New York; Bendix Stromberg Carburetor Company, South Bend, Indiana, and other subsidiaries.

"Competition is the life of business. To win leadership a manufacturer must make his product more desirable than others. Hence there results a great benefit to the public through constant striving for improvement. The use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray in toasting the tobaccos used in LUCKY STRIKES is an example of such advancement."

Vincent Bendix

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray. LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating!

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company has invited Mr. Vincent Bendix to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process. The statement of Mr. Bendix appears on this page.

Charter Members Honored By Church Aid Society

Mrs. Minnie Davis and Mrs. John Witham, only active charter members of the Ladies Aid Society of the First Lutheran Church, were honored when the organization observed its thirty-fourth anniversary at the church Wednesday afternoon and evening.

The society was organized at the home of Mrs. Davis in November, 1896, with twelve members. Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Witham have both held offices in the society and are still active in its work.

Mrs. F. F. Filson, president, presided at the meeting Wednesday. At the close of the business session a "kitchen shower" was held when members donated an array of articles for use in the church kitchen.

At 6:30 o'clock members of the society and their husbands enjoyed an anniversary dinner in the church dining room. Sixty guests were seated at three long tables. Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Witham were seated at the center table which had as its centerpiece a large birthday cake with thirty-four candles, baked by Mrs. Sarah Sheets. After dinner the cake was presented to Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Witham by Mrs. Filson. The Rev. Adrian G. Lehold gave a short talk and the Misses Mary Maxwell and Phyllis Mellage, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. F. Mellage, sang a duet. The remainder of the evening was spent informally. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Owens and daughter, Miss Helen Owens, Dayton, formerly of this city, were the only out-of-town guests present at the affair.

PARENTS OF XENIAN TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Heathman, Wayne Ave., Dayton, parents of Mr. E. H. Heathman, W. Second St., this city, will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary next Tuesday. A family dinner will be given in the evening at the Knights of Pythias Castle, S. Main St., followed by a reception there at 7:30 o'clock. A number of Xenians have received invitations to the reception but any friends of the couple in this city not receiving invitations are cordially invited to attend.

HAGLER-SITTERLE WEDDING WEDNESDAY

Mr. Glenn Hagler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hagler, Fairground Ave., this city and Miss Harriet Ann Sitterle, daughter of Mrs. Lucy Sitterle, Greenfield, were united in marriage Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Baptist Church in Greenfield. The single ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Donaldson. Attendants at the ceremony were Mr. Russell Merker, Wilmington and Miss Josephine Sitterle, sister of the bride. The bride wore a frock of black silk crepe and carried a large bouquet of pink roses and blue delphinium. Mr. and Mrs. Hagler came here Wednesday night and are enjoying a short visit with Mr. Hagler's parents.

Mrs. Hagler is a graduate of Greenfield High School with the class of 1930 and has been attending Wilmington College this year. Mr. Hagler is a graduate of Central High School with the class of 1927 and is manager of Geyer's store in Wilmington. The young couple will reside in Wilmington.

THREE HONORED AT BIRTHDAY DINNER

Mrs. F. C. Hopping entertained with a birthday dinner at her home, 500 S. Columbus St., Wednesday in honor of three members of her family whose birthdays occur in November. The three guests of honor were: Mr. Arnett Gordon, Miss Martha Lackey and Mrs. Hopping.

Other guests at the dinner included: Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Lackey, Jamestown; Mrs. Arnett Gordon, Cedarville and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mitchener, New Burlington.

TURKEY DINNER IS ENJOYED AT CLUB

Ending the season's activities at the Xenia County Club forty members enjoyed a two course turkey dinner at the clubhouse Wednesday evening. Mrs. S. M. McKay and Mrs. J. A. Chew were in charge of the dinner, which was followed by an evening of bridge.

The regular Monday luncheons for women at the club were discontinued several weeks ago but the Wednesday evening suppers were held until this week's dinner brought the affairs to a close.

TO PRESENT AWARDS FOLLOWING BANQUET

Following the "mother and dad" Girl Scout banquet at the cafeteria at Central High School Friday evening, Girl Scouts of Xenia will hold their Court of Award. Although the oldest Girl Scout troop in Xenia, now in existence, is only one and one-half years old there will be fourteen second class badges presented to girls at the dinner.

MCLELLAND UNION MEETS WEDNESDAY

McClelland W. C. T. U. held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Weiss, Lower Bellbrook Pike, Wednesday afternoon. After a short business session Mrs. Henry Norckauer, Xenia, gave a talk on "Soldiers and Sailors."

Later a salad course was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Emma Keiter and Mrs. William Weiss.

The Rev. W. H. Tilford, N. Detroit St., will preach at the Presbyterian Church at West Carrollton next Sunday evening. Ministers of the Dayton Presbytery are supplying at this church while it is without a pastor.

Members of the choir of the First Lutheran Church will meet for rehearsal in the Sunday School room of the church at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening. This is an important meeting because Christmas music will be distributed at that time and all members of the choir are urged by Mrs. Homer T. Gratz, director, to be present.

Unit No. 1, of the Greene County Council of Religious Education will conduct a service at the Ferry Church in Sugarcreek Twp. Sunday afternoon, November 16 at 2 o'clock with the Rev. Mr. Williamson, the pastor, in charge, it is announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Harner and son, Junior, Cincinnati Ave., are spending several days in Columbus where they were called by the death of Mrs. Harner's aunt, Mrs. F. R. Small.

Mrs. Flora Alexander is confined to her home on Sheridan Drive because of illness.

Mrs. Sarah Lane, who has been spending several weeks here with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lane, High St., has gone to Shelby, Ind., to spend the winter with relatives.

Mr. John G. Eavey, Pleasant St., who underwent an operation for appendicitis at McClelland Hospital last week, continues to show improvement daily.

Members of the Clark's Run Club were entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Ferguson, Clifton Pike. Mrs. David Bradfute, assisted by Mrs. Charles Turnbull, gave a demonstration on "Home Care of the Sick." A social hour followed and refreshments were served by the hostess.

Trinity M. E. Church Choir will meet for rehearsal Friday evening at 7 o'clock. This rehearsal is important and all members are requested to be present.

Mrs. Charles Snider, Marion, O., and granddaughter, Doris Jean Smith, Miami, Fla., spent a few days last week as guests of Mrs. George L. White, W. Market St.

Miss Sarah B. Hagar, Mrs. C. H. Little and Mrs. Louise H. Sandoe, representatives from Christ Episcopal Church, this city, are spending several days this week in Cincinnati in attendance at the convention of Episcopal Churches of the southern Ohio diocese. They will return home Friday evening.

Xenia Lodge, No. 49, F. and A. M., will hold a special communication Friday evening at 7 o'clock at the Masonic Temple. Work in the E. A. degree is scheduled and all members are urged to attend. Visitors are welcome to the meeting.

Mrs. Eddy Ecekey and infant daughter, Helen Barbara, Cincinnati, are spending several days here with Mrs. Ecekey's father, Mr. George Little, N. King St.

SALE OF AUTO TAGS STARTS DECEMBER 1

Sale of 1931 motor vehicle license plates in Greene County is expected to be inaugurated by the Greene County Auto Club about December 1. A supply of the new tags has not been received but the club is already making preparations to handle the distribution of approximately 6,000 licenses. Secretary Oliver Belden announces a downstairs office will probably be established at some convenient location in the business district and used as headquarters for the tag sale.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

WITHOUT WILLIAM

The socialist revolution in Germany triumphed in Berlin twelve years ago this week. William II fled to Holland. A republic rose in due course from the ashes of the imperial structure with the erection of which his ambitions had been closely associated. Apparently that republic will survive.

An American author recently visited Dorn, where he found the last of the Hohenzollern emperors surrounded by his books vigorous in body and mind and still taking a deep interest in scientific and political developments outside his estate. There is nothing to indicate that the former emperor is stirred by the antics of Adolf Hitler. William has said that he would never return to Germany unless invited back by his former subjects. They seem content that he should spend his last years in the quiet peace of Dorn, a fate to which he himself seems reconciled.

The man whom allied delegates to Versailles swore they would see hanged has lived to see his country absolved by unbiased world opinion of the charge of sole responsibility for the World War, which the victors wrote into the treaty of peace, as well as to hear Germany called "the most useful country in Europe today." She is giving the world an example of a nation turning defeat in war into a victory of peace. Surrounded by communism and fascism, she is holding true to republicanism. And she is doing this when to the difficulties of world-wide depression, which other countries are finding it hard to support, are added the burdens imposed upon her by the war. If such an example is worth anything to the world, Germany is playing a useful part in mundane affairs. And her former emperor is entitled to the satisfaction of feeling that his abdication facilitated this happy development.

SHUNNING SPAIN

Spain has been taking stock of her 1930 tourist season. She is again disappointed to find that the flood of American tourist gold has gone to other countries, while she has attracted only a negligible trickle. Why should so few Americans visit Spain, when so many rush year after year to the some old tourist concentration camps in other parts of Europe?

A correspondent attempts to answer the question. Spain is less "spoiled by civilization" than any of the other more considerable European countries. The spirit of romance still clings about her mountains and valleys and ancient piles. She is rich in architectural treasures, a beautiful natural terrain, an unsurpassed climate and a race of cultured and hospitable people. The paths trod by Sancho Panza's donkey are trod by donkeys still. The adventures of Don Juan may still be lived over among the ladies of Cadiz. What more do Americans want?

Simple, unspoiled Spain! What she lacks is "all the comforts of home"—and especially that "night life which the enterprising capitals of other continental countries affect in order to keep Americans from feeling homesick. Spain has refused to stoop to conquer. She has neither advertised her scenic and architectural wares as other countries have nor smoothed the path of the tourist with Americanized railways, automobile roads and steam-heated hotels with a bath in every suite.

As long as Spain remains unspoiled by civilization she will have to be content with her small visiting list of discriminating Americans, who are capable of appreciating her wonders. She will not attract the herd of American spenders. They are altogether too civilized to put up with primitive travel conditions in order to visit the Alhambra, when they can whizz past a castle on the Rhine at 70 miles an hour. They go only where they can take a bit of the United States with them. They can't be without the night life they have lived at home. The hotels they favor are those patronized by other Americans, where they can gather together and swap experiences among the benighted peoples whose guests they are. Such people find travel in Spain too arduous. Attempting to attract them by a program of ruthless modernization, Spain might lose more than she gained. She would swap the gold of romance for the tainted dollar of commercialism.

The "new morality" practiced by a certain section of the public would be more endurable, if it were not so crude.

ALL of US

THAT SUB-CONSCIOUS OF YOURS

I'm fed up on my Sub-Conscious and perhaps you are fed up on yours. Just as I'm fed up on mine.

You know about the Sub-Conscious, of course. Everybody does, these days. Babies talk about it in their bassinets, children in their kindergartens, grown-ups babble about the Sub-Conscious everywhere. He's been in the limelight for years and years and years—and he's spic!

He's a monster like that ghastly creature made by the young medical student Frankenstein, out of materials gathered in tombs and dissecting rooms. He's like the octopus with the beady eyes and the snaky arms and the muddying ways. He's a shark, a coyote, a jackal, and a slimy eel—and he's supposed to be US, supposed to be our Real Selves peeping out from beneath our cowardly masks.

You go along for 30 or 40 or 50 years, trying to be decent, trying to make people like you, trying to Do Better. People like you, respect you, think you're a Pretty Good Fellow. Sometimes even you begin to think you're a fairly good sort . . . And then you slip up. You do something, you say something, you make a bad mistake. It just happened, you didn't mean to do it at all. But some amateur psychologist hops on your mistake with howls of unholy glee and yelps to the whole world:

"That's the Real You. You thought you could hide it, but you couldn't. Underneath all your attempts to be fair and square and honest and decent, you are vain and crooked and sly and mean—and don't you try to deny it. Your Sub-Conscious is showing. It's slipped down like a lady's petticoat in the old days, like your sock when your garter breaks. I can see it! And that Sub-Conscious is the Real You. Yahr! you hypocrite!"

Well, I don't believe it! We are all of us made of two people, walking around in the same skin. But neither is a Villain and neither is an Angel. They are just two parts of the same human being, trying to get along together, trying to do the best they can. You try to be a grateful son, a fair father, a well-behaving husband and you ought to get credit for it. You don't deserve icies, sneers and catcalls just because you slip up occasionally. And I see no reason to assume we have a leering, lecherous, envious Under-self who is the real You and the real Me and the real Other Fellow.

I'm fed up on that Sub-Conscious. He was slipped over on us when we weren't looking. And I think it's time we handed him his hat and showed him the door. We can get along without him.

THE QUESTION BOX

Central Press Wash. Bureau

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions, nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

What university is regarded as the richest in the United States, and which is the richer of the two, Duke university or the University of Texas?

In terms of endowment, Harvard university may be said to be the richest in the United States. It has an endowment of $90,000,000. The endowments of Duke university and the University of Texas are $21,017,966 and $10,129,059, respectively.

Moon's Distance

What is the distance, in miles, when the moon is nearest and farthest from the earth?

The moon's mean distance from the earth is 238,857 miles. The maximum distance, however, may reach 252,715 miles and the least distance to which the moon can approach the earth is 221,466 miles. Deducting the radii of both the earth and the moon from this last figure gives the nearest approach of the surfaces of the two bodies, which is 216,423 miles.

Enrollments

What is the size of the University of Minnesota as compared with the other universities of the Big Ten?

The student enrollments in the Big Ten universities are as follows: University of Illinois, 14,183; Ohio State university, 13,546; University of Minnesota, 13,146; University of Chicago, 12,961; University of Wisconsin, 9,746; University of Michigan, 9,529; University of Iowa, 8,237; Northwestern university, 6,032; University of Indiana, 4,515; and Purdue university, 4,000.

Green Pastures

What are some of the facts concerning the life of Marc Connelly, the playwright and author of "Green Pastures"?

Marcus Cook Connelly was born at McKeesport, Pa., March 13, 1890. He began his writing career as a reporter on the Pittsburgh (Pa.) Sun, in 1910, later going to the Pittsburgh Dispatch. He has written the lyrics for several musical comedies. He was co-author of "Dulcy," "To the Ladies," "Merton of the Movies" and "Beggars on Horseback." His play, "Green Pastures," was adapted from the book, "O! Man Adam an' His Chillum," by Roark Bradford.

Transatlantic Crossings

What liner holds the record for the fastest transatlantic crossing? The liner Bremen of the North German Lloyd line holds the record for the fastest transatlantic crossing, making the eastbound crossing in 4 days, 14 hours and 30 minutes. This is the record which now stands although the Bremen, on her arrival at New York, October 3, 1930, improved her westbound time by eight minutes. The westbound record is held by her sister ship, the Europa, which made the crossing in 4 days, 17 hours, 6 minutes.

Bo-Broadway

—By—
JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.—Tammany Town's culture is reflected by the book trade.

Best sellers in the non-fiction list this Fall are the biographies of Jonathan Swift, British satirist, and Al Capone, Chicago gang leader.

Several months ago "The Art of Thinking" and "The Specialist" were crowding each other for first place.

Mr. H. G. Wells spoke on the radio, Sunday, from London and, naturally, all New York tuned in. He had undertaken to discuss the sort of world our grandchildren will inhabit.

I had a good hook-up but couldn't understand him very well. The fact that he is H. G. Wells gets in the way of his enunciation, and that sort of gums up the works.

The gentleman who once spoke of man's life contemptuously as "a little stir among the slime—a fuss in the mud," sounded on the air, Sunday, as if he had the heavens. He gurgled and wheezed and squeaked like a cranky water pipe under the kitchen sink.

After listening to Hailch Gee for fifteen minutes I find Mr. Dooley's advice still good:

"If you want to be a king, an' git away with it, kape out o' sight."

DEPENDS ON GEOGRAPHY

A well-known author sent a story to one of the big magazines and in due time got it back, with the following note:

"This story is just a little too hokum for us. We like hokum but only when we can believe in it. In our opinion, The Hero is just too good to be true."

BIG MISS MUFFET

REAPPORTIONMENT DUE ON 1930 CENSUS BASIS PROMISES MANY FIGHTS

CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—The house of representatives which the voters have just chosen is the last one that the United States will have, elected on the 1910 population basis.

The next one will be elected on the 1930 census basis.

There should have been a reapportionment, as they call it, on the 1920 basis, but that one was skipped. It was skipped because it was evident that reapportionment would cause a lot of representatives out of their jobs, and those who considered themselves in danger wanted to postpone the evil day as long as they could. By ignoring 1920 they did manage to postpone it ten years. Had they dared, they would have postponed it another ten, but the constitution requires a decennial reapportionment, and they lacked the nerve to defy the constitution twice.

However, the fight isn't ended yet; only scattered.

Hitherto it has been one big battle, royal, here in Washington, over congress' scandalous, unconstitutional delay in readjusting the states' respective proportions of representation to suit their varying rates of growth.

Now it is due to resolve itself into a multiplicity of little battles, raging, one each, in most of the states legislatures.

All that remains for Washington to do, Congress having belatedly voted reapportionment, is to notify each state how many representatives it is entitled to under the new census.

The next step is for each state to divide itself up into a new set of congressional districts—with the exception of five states which will be awarded only one representative each and therefore will not have to divide themselves up for congressional purposes.

Still, 43 fights in as many state legislatures will be a plenty.

The 1930 census figures have not been fully analyzed yet, but indications are that ten states will gain, among them, a total of 26 representatives, because they have grown faster than the others.

To illustrate, take Michigan: The Wolverine State probably will prove to have gained four representatives. On a population basis its big cities will claim all of them, for Michigan's cities have grown at a great rate (Detroit 58.4 per cent, Flint 70.8, and others by high percentages), whereas the state in general has grown only 31.3 per cent, and that includes the big boost given by the cities.

But Michigan's legislature is predominantly rural, being chosen on a basis antedating its cities' present numerical predominance. Will this rural legislature choose to re-district the state so as to give the cities their four additional congressmen? Or will it prefer to leave its present 13 congressional districts as they are—allowing the whole state to elect the four new representatives "at large," like senators; thus giving the farmers a voice in their selection.

The legislature can do it.

Presumably, 20 states will lose, too grim and dark a topic for us. I like, particularly, the way you used your dramatic material so economically—never becoming sentimental.

All of which goes to show that vision depends largely at what spot you're standing on the circumference.

among them, a total of 26 representatives.

To illustrate, take Kansas:

The Sunflower State's population increased only 6.4 per cent—so small a gain, compared with others, that it is due to lose a representative. But Wichita gained 53.8 per cent. Obviously Kansas' farmers ought to yield at least one more representative to Wichita's district, despite the fact that the state's total is about to be cut from eight to seven.

But is it likely that an agricultural legislature will see it that way? May it not even feel tempted to have all seven of its representatives elected "at large" in future?—rather than re-district the state so much to its cities' advantage, at the expense of its rural voters.

Ten states seemingly are scheduled neither to gain nor lose in representation, but this does not mean that there is no reason for restricting any of them.

To illustrate, take Illinois: The Sucker State's population increase is 17.6 per cent—not enough to entitle it to an increase in the size of its congressional delegation. But Chicago is entitled to an increase, with 24.9 per cent population growth. Moreover, under a much earlier census, Chicago was entitled to two more representatives than ever have been allotted to the Windy City. The farm-dominated legislature refused to redistrict the state so as to give them to the Chicago voters. To this day they are elected "at large".

The city slicker fancies that he will have everything his own way in Washington, beginning with the 73rd congress. Farmer legislatures may fool him.

Mock Drumsticks

Baked Stuffed Potatoes

Head Lettuce Salad With French Dressing

Ice Box Cake

Dressing up the familiar things to eat until they have a "party" appearance and taste is part of mother's job. Quite inexpensive foods may be thus made to look quite different. The mock drumsticks in today's recipes are a sample of what can be done in this direction.

Today's Recipes

Mock Drumsticks.—These may be made from beef, veal or pork, thin slices cut into suitable portions, pounded well, rubbed with seasonings and rolled around a skewer. Then they should be rolled in slightly beaten egg and crushed cornflakes or cracker crumbs.

browned quickly in a hot frying pan, and either finished in the frying pan or transferred to a moderate oven. Finish the drumsticks with paper flairs.

Chocolate Ice Box Cake.—One and one-half dozen lady fingers, double, one-half pound of vanilla sweet chocolate, two to four tablespoons sugar, four eggs, one cup whipping cream, vanilla extract. Mix chocolate and sugar over hot water, adding two tablespoons water. Cool slightly and stir in egg yolks, then fold in whites beaten stiff. Add a few drops of vanilla. Line a round pan or mold with wax paper, place a layer of single lady fingers in bottom and around the sides. Spread half the chocolate mixture on them, cover with a layer of lady fingers, cover with waxed paper and weight down with a plate. Keep in refrigerator 12 to 24 hours. To serve, remove wax paper, invert on plate and cover with whipped cream. Sponge cake may replace lady fingers. Serves four.

Suggestions

Changing the Salad Dressing

The making of several kinds of salad dressing isn't necessary to change the flavor. From one jar of mayonnaise, home made or commercial, we can make any number of salad dressings. For example, read over the following:

For vegetable salad, add a bit of chili sauce to the mayonnaise with a bit of salt and pepper.

For the head lettuce salad, stir in some grated cheese, salt, pepper, a bit more vinegar, chili sauce and chopped olives if you have them.

For the fruit salad add a bit of the fruit juice, a dash of cinnamon and nutmeg, salt, pepper and fold in a spoon of whipped cream.

If you want a spicier mayonnaise dressing add a bit of vinegar, a dash of salt and pepper, a generous amount of paprika, and presto! You have a new salad dressing.

Dustless Mop

Legs of old stockings cut in inch-wide stripes and sewed to a strip of cloth, this fastened to an old broom handle, make a good dustless mop when oil is applied.

Freak Diets Not Advised

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Ever since Adam had his first twinge of rheumatism and Eve said: "Uh-huh! I told you not to eat so much of that mastodon steak" (this happened November 4, 4004, B. C.), people have been blaming arthritis on diet and trying to cure it by diet.

I hinted in the article yesterday that I was somewhat skeptical of the value of dietary treatment in arthritis. Most of my reasons for this come from what the advocates of tooth-pulling and tonsil-removing say about their rivals, the diet school. With one accord they announce that they have never seen much benefit derived from dieting in chronic arthritis.

What one of the diet school says about the tooth-pulling school is as follows: "It is true that the removal of infectious foci sometimes results in improvement of the most dramatic and immediate nature, but because of such occurrences the conclusion has been drawn in too many quarters that such results are inevitable. Nothing could be further from the truth."

These are some of the things which made me say yesterday that if I had chronic arthritis I would treat it by baking, rubbing, bathing, etc., and keep my teeth and eat what I pleased.

However, I am perfectly willing to state the best views on the subject of diet held by the profession, and state them as fairly and clearly as I can, so that whoever wants to try the dietary treatment may do so.

The best views. That is important.

ant to emphasize because there is so much faddism and bunk promulgated about this. Drs. Barker and Cole, in their little book on "Rheumatism" (published by Appleton) say under the heading of diet:

"Here faddists have often held full sway. Each enthusiast has in his turn drawn after him crowds of arthritic patients who had become discouraged by the poor results that followed ordinary methods of treatment. All sorts of bizarre dietetic proposals have been made: tomatoes, lemons, oranges, grapefruit, white bread and various other single articles of food have at one time or another come under the ban. Careful studies indicate that diet has little to do with the majority of cases of chronic arthritis."

One of the worst results of all these teachings is that the poor patient will be starved and undernourished from the progressive elimination of articles from his diet. The first rule for the arthritic then is to eat plenty.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A new pamphlet, "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," by Dr. Clendening, can be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 E. Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlet on "Hygiene of Women" also is available for 10 cents.)

Proposing Should Be Left To Man

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

It's an old and much discussed question, whether women should "pop the question" if they are in love and the lover seems reluctant.

Most married men declare that they were really the ones courted, and wives merely smile, recalling the days when these same men were leaping and bounding to do their slightest wish. They know that what advances they made were so deftly done that at least the men never knew it.

Now, far be it from me to insist that it is nature that causes women to wait to be coaxed in love matters—those who have the most success in capturing men.

It may be that it is just generations of training in the present civilization and that as women become independent financially and gain equal opportunities with men in every field they will take more of the initiative in matters of love. And it may be, too, that wise Dame Nature has made men and women so that it is almost always disastrous for the latter to tell of her love unasked. That such is the case at present, is certain.

JERRY: Of course you realized that you had made a mistake in saying what you did to the young man. A girl would have to be very very certain that her love was reciprocated if she told a man about it, unsolicited. It is a very embarrassing situation for a man. It would have been so much wiser to have waited until you had gotten to know him better and then maybe he would have grown fond of you. He handled the situation very well, I think.

You can't do anything new but try to fill your life with other things and wait until time has eased the pain of your disappointment. It may be that he will think over the friendship that you have had for one another and decide that he does care for you, and in that case he will come back. You can hope that, anyway. It will help.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I would like to pass my opinion about poor Rose. Poor little girl, how she must feel, while the boy goes free! "No, Rose, you must not suffer alone. You must tell the boy and be married. I am one mother who will stick up for you. I have four sons, and if I caught one of them deserting a girl, I surely would make life miserable for him.

"Cheer up and go to this boy and even to his parents, and if that won't do, we have a good law to attend to these matters."

"MOTHER OF FOUR. That's the spirit, Mother of Four. If we women would stick together and help one another at such times, men would be less likely to desert girls who loved them unwisely.

LONESOME is 15 and her mother won't let her date, although all her girl friends do and they have good times while Lonesome is lonesome because she stays at home. She has read all the books she can find, sometimes reading them over more than once just to pass the time away.

If the books are good ones, Lonesome, it won't hurt you to read them over twice, or even three times. Can't you borrow more from your friends or a library? I can see no harm in the dances you speak of, as you are properly chaperoned by your sister and her husband, and undesirable characters are kept out. Your mother wants to safeguard her little girl, and thinks she can do it best by keeping the boys away I suppose. Try to be a little bit patient and you will grow older and you will be given more liberty.

BROKEN HEARTED: No harm in calling the boy friend up and asking him for the tickets, as your girl friends want to go to the dance. That was a mean trick he played on you, however, begging you to go steady with him and to give up your other boy friend, and then losing interest.

PAT says her boy friend thinks she is angry with him because of some "double another girl caused. But she isn't. She has tried to make him understand, but he doesn't come to see her any more and she hopes he'll see this in print and come.

I hope he does, Pat. If he doesn't, however, don't grieve too much about it, will you?

Cream Will Soothe Skin

By GLADYS GLAD

In cold weather, girls often make the mistake of washing their wind and cold-bitten faces with soap and water when they enter their warm rooms. The stinging cold on the cheeks, followed by the heat of the warm room, causes their cheeks to burn. And with the idea of relieving this sensation, they foolishly dash cold water over their faces.

Such treatment is most abusive to the skin. A rich cream or a soothing skin lotion is the only thing that should be applied to the face after a trip out of doors in the cold weather. The texture of the skin may be permanently ruined if the other method is continued for any length of time.

An excellent treatment for skin that is subjected to long hours of exposure to cold air is an oil facial. The process is very simple. First cleanse your skin thoroughly with a filmy, liquefying cleansing cream. Then heat a bit of pure olive oil, and dip into it small pieces of gauze. Arrange the oil-soaked pieces of gauze on the face for the form of a mask, and then gently into contact with the skin.

Allow the oil mask to remain on the skin for at least 15 minutes. Lie down and relax during this short period of time. Then remove the gauze, and apply a skin tonic to close the pores. After a dash of salt and pepper, a generous amount of paprika, and presto! You have a new salad dressing.

When the skin is in a very dry condition, quicker results in softening it may always be obtained by heating the grease that is used. Some beauty specialists also advise that women have oil maniures during the cold weather. In the oil manicure, the fingertips are soaked in warm oil, instead of water. Such manicures are excellent for the nails, but not really essential. For, at this time of the year, all of us should apply grease to our fingertips every night, to keep the cuticle from getting dry and heavy. This practice alone should be sufficient to keep the nails in

What she lacks is "all the comforts of home"—and especially that "night life" which the enterprising capitals of other continental countries affect in order to keep Americans from feeling homesick. Spain has refused to stoop to conquer. She has neither advertised her scenic and architectural wares as other countries have nor smoothed the path of the tourist with Americanized railways, automobile roads and steam-heated hotels with a bath in every suite.

As long as Spain remains unspoiled by civilization she will have to be content with her small visiting list of discriminating Americans, who are capable of appreciating her wonders. She will not attract the herd of American spenders. They are altogether too civilized to put up with primitive travel conditions in order to visit the Alhambra, when they can whizz past a castle on the Rhine at 70 miles an hour. They go only where they can take a bit of the United States with them. They can't be without the night life they have lived at home. The hotels they favor are those patronized by other Americans, where they can gather together and swap experiences among the benighted peoples whose guests they are. Such people find travel in Spain too arduous. Attempting to attract them by a program of ruthless modernization, Spain might lose more than she gained. She would swap the gold of romance for the tainted dollar of commercialism.

The "new morality" practiced by a certain section of the public could be more endurable, if it were not so crude.

THAT SUB-CONSCIOUS OF YOURS

I'm fed up on my Sub-Conscious and perhaps you are fed up on yours. Just as I'm fed up on mine.

You know about the Sub-Conscious, of course. Everybody does. These days. Babies talk about it in their bassinets, children in their kindergartens, grown-ups babble about the Sub-Conscious everywhere. He's been in the limelight for years and years and years—and he's apiled!

He's a monster like that ghastly creature made by the young medical student Frankenstein, out of materials gathered in tombs and dissecting rooms. He's like the octopus with the beady eyes and the snaky arms and the muddying ways. He's a shark, a coyote, a jackal, and a slimy eel—and he's supposed to be US, supposed to be our Real Selves peeping out from beneath our cowardly masks.

You go along for 30 or 40 or 50 years, trying to be decent, trying to make people like you, trying to Do Better. People like you, respect you, think you're a Pretty Good Fellow. Sometimes even you begin to think you're a fairly good sort. . . . And then you slip up. You do something, you say something, you make a bad mistake. It just happened, you didn't mean to do it all. But some amateur psychologist hops on your mistake with howls of unholy glee and yelps to the whole world:

"That's the Real You. You thought you could hide it, but you couldn't. Underneath all your attempts to be fair and square and honest and decent, you are vain and crooked and sly and mean—and don't you try to deny it. Your Sub-Conscious is showing. It's slipped down like a lady's petticoat in the old days, like your sock when your garter breaks. I can see it! And that Sub-Conscious is the Real You. Yahl! you hypocrite!"

Well, I don't believe it! We are all of us made of two people, walking around in the same skin. But neither is a Villain and neither is an Angel. They are just two parts of the same human being, trying to get along together, trying to do the best they can. You try to be a grateful son, a fair father, a well-behaving husband and you ought to get credit for it. You don't deserve exile, sneers and catcalls just because you slip up occasionally. And I see no reason to assume we have a leering, lecherous, envious Under-sly who is the real You and the real Me and the real Other Fellow.

I'm fed up on that Sub-Conscious. He's slipped over on us when we weren't looking. And I think it's time we handed him his hat and showed him the door. We can get along without him.

THE QUESTION BOX

Central Press Wash. Bureau

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, 1435 E. Twelfth Street, Cleveland, O., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions, nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

What university is regarded as the richest in the United States, and which is the richer of the two, Duke University or the University of Texas?

In terms of endowment, Harvard University may be said to be the richest in the United States. It has an endowment of $90,000,000. The endowment of Duke University and the University of Texas are $21,017,966 and $10,129,059, respectively.

Moon's Distance

What is the distance, in miles, when the moon is nearest and farthest from the earth?

The moon's mean distance from the earth is 238,857 miles. The maximum distance, however, may reach 252,713 miles and the least distance to which the moon can approach the earth is 221,466 miles. Deducting the radii of both the earth and the moon from this last figure gives the nearest approach of the surfaces of the two bodies, which is 216,423 miles.

Enrollments

What is the size of the University of Minnesota as compared with the other universities of the Big Ten?

The student enrollments in the Big Ten universities are as follows: University of Illinois, 14,183; Ohio State University, 13,546; University of Minnesota, 13,146; University of Chicago, 12,961; University of Wisconsin, 9,746; University of Michigan, 9,529; University of Iowa, 8,239; Northwestern University, 6,032; University of Indiana, 4,515, and Purdue University, 4,000.

Green Pastures

What are some of the facts concerning the life of Marc Connelly, the playwright and author of "Green Pastures"?

Marcus Cook Connelly was born at McKeesport, Pa., Dec. 13, 1890. He began his writing career as a reporter on the Pittsburgh (Pa.) Sun. In 1910, later going to the Pittsburgh Dispatch. He has written the lyrics for several musical comedies. He was co-author of "Dulcy," "To the Ladies," "Merton of the Movies" and "Beggars on Horseback." His play, "Green Pastures," was adapted from the book, "Of Man Adam an' His Chillun," by Roark Bradford.

Transatlantic Crossings

What liner holds the record for the fastest transatlantic crossing? The liner Bremen of the North German Lloyd line holds the record for the fastest transatlantic crossing, making the eastbound crossing in 4 days, 14 hours and 30 minutes. This is the record which now stands although the Bremen, on her arrival at New York, October 3, 1930, improved her westbound time by eight minutes. The westbound record is held by her sister ship, the Europa, which made the crossing in 4 days, 17 hours, 6 minutes.

JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.—Tamm many Town's culture is reflected by the book trade.

Best sellers in the non-fiction list this Fall are the biographies of Jonathan Swift, British satirist, and Al Capone, Chicago gang leader.

Several months ago "The Art of Thinking" and "The Specialist" were crowding each other for first place.

M. H. G. Wells spoke on the radio, Sunday, from London and, naturally, all New York tuned in. He had undertaken to discuss the sort of world our grandchildren will inhabit.

I had a good hook-up but couldn't understand him very well. The fact that he, H. G. Wells, gets in the way of his enunciation, and that sort of gums up the works.

The gentleman who once spoke of man's life contemptuously as "a little stir among the slime—a fuss in the mud," sounded on the air, Sunday, as if he had the heaves. He gurgled and wheezed and squeaked like a cranky water pipe under the kitchen sink.

After listening to Hattch Gee for fifteen minutes I find Mr. Dooley's advice still good:

"If you want to be a king, an' git away with it, kape out o' sight."

DEPENDS ON GEOGRAPHY

A well-known author sent a story to one of the big magazines and in due time got it back, with the following note:

"This story is just a little too hokumy for us. We like hokum but only when we can believe in it. In our opinion, The Hero is just too good to be true."

When you're dealing with editors as long as the author in question, a rebuff of that sort means absolutely nothing. The day he got it back he mailed it to another big magazine and within two weeks was back again. The note enclosed read as follows:

"This is a very good story. But

BIG MISS MUFFET

REAPPORTIONMENT DUE ON 1930 CENSUS BASIS PROMISES MANY FIGHTS

—CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—The house of representatives which the voters have just chosen is the last one that the United States will have, elected on the 1910 population basis.

The next one will be elected on the 1930 census basis. There should have been a reapportionment, as they call it, on the 1920 basis, but that one was skipped. It was skipped because it was evident that reapportionment would euvre a lot of representatives out of their jobs, and those who considered themselves in danger wanted to postpone the evil day as long as they could. By ignoring 1920 it is old manner to postpone it ten years. Had they dared, they would have postponed it another ten, but the constitution requires a decennial reapportionment, and they lacked the nerve to defy the constitution twice.

However, the fight isn't ended yet; still scattered.

Hitherto it has been one big battle royal, here in Washington, over congress' scandalous, unconstitutional delay in readjusting the states' respective proportions of representation to suit their varying rates of growth.

Now it is due to resolve itself into a multiplicity of little battles, raging, one each, in most of the state legislatures.

All that remains for Washington to do, congress having belatedly voted reapportionment, is to notify each state how many representatives it is entitled to under the new census.

The next step is for each state to divide itself up into a new set of congressional districts—with the exception of five states which will be awarded only one representative each and therefore will not have to divide themselves up for congressional purposes.

Still, 43 fights in as many state legislatures will be a plenty. The 1930 census figures have not been fully analyzed yet, but indications are that ten states will gain, among them, a total of 26 representatives, because they have grown faster than the others.

To illustrate, take Michigan: The Wolverine State probably will prove to have gained four representatives. On a population basis, its big cities will claim all of them. For Michigan's cities have grown at a great rate (Detroit: 58.4 per cent, Flint 70.8, and others by high percentages), whereas the state in general has grown only 31.3 per cent, and that includes the big boost given by the cities.

But Michigan's legislature is predominantly rural, being chosen on a basis antedating its cities' present numerical predominance.

Will this rural legislature choose to re-district the state so as to give the cities their four additional congressmen? Or will it prefer to leave its present 13 congressional districts as they are?—allowing the whole state to elect the four new representatives "at large," like senators; thus giving the farmers a voice in their selection.

The legislature can do it.

Presumably, 20 states will lose, too grim and dark a topic for us. I like, particularly, the way you used your dramatic material so economically—never becoming sentimental.

All of which goes to show that vision depends largely at what spot you're standing on the circumference.

among them, a total of 26 representatives.

To illustrate, take Kansas:

The Sunflower State's population increased only 6.4 per cent—so small a gain, compared with others, that it is due to lose a representative. But Wichita gained 53.8 per cent. Obviously Kansas' farmers ought to yield at least one more representative to Wichita's district, despite the fact that the state's total is about to be cut from eight to seven.

But is it likely that an agricultural legislature will see it that way? May it not even feel tempted to have all seven of its representatives elected "at large" in future?—rather than re-district the state so much to its cities' advantage, at the expense of its rural voters.

Ten states seemingly are scheduled neither to gain nor lose in representation, but this does not mean that there is no reason for redistricting any of them.

To illustrate, take Illinois:

The Sucker State's population increase is 17.6 per cent—not enough to entitle it to an increase in the size of its congressional delegation. But Chicago is entitled to an increase, with 24.9 per cent population growth. Moreover, under a much earlier census, Chicago was entitled to two more representatives than have ever been allotted to the Windy City. The farm-dominated legislature refused to redistrict the state so as to give them to the Chicago voters. To this day they are elected "at large."

The city slicker fancies that he will have everything his own way in Washington, beginning with the 73rd congress. Farmer legislatures may fool him.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

MENU HINT

Mock Drumsticks
Baked Stuffed Potatoes
Creamed Cauliflower
Head Lettuce Salad With French Dressing

Ice Box Cake Tea Milk

Dressing up the familiar things to eat until they have a "party" appearance and taste is part of mother's job. Quite inexpensive foods may be thus made to look quite different. The mock drumsticks in today's recipes are a sample of what can be done in this direction.

Today's Recipes

Mock Drumsticks.—These may be made of beef, veal or pork, thin slices cut into suitable portions, pounded well, rubbed with seasoning and rolled around a skewer. Then they should be rolled in slightly beaten eggs and crushed cornflakes or cracker crumbs, browned quickly in a hot frying pan, and either finished in the frying pan or transferred to a moderate oven. Finish the drumsticks with paper fillings.

Chocolate Ice Box Cake.—One and one-half dozen lady fingers, double, one-half pound of vanilla sweet chocolate, two to four tablespoons sugar, four eggs, one cup whipping cream, vanilla extract. Mix chocolate and sugar over hot water, adding two tablespoons water. Cool slightly and stir in egg yolks, then fold in whites beaten stiff. Add a few drops of vanilla. Line a round pan or mold with wax paper, place a layer of single lady fingers in bottom and around the sides. Spread half the chocolate mixture on them, cover with a layer of lady fingers, cover with waxed paper and weight down with a plate. Keep in refrigerator 12 to 24 hours. To serve, remove wax paper, invert on plate and cover with whipped cream. Sponge cake may replace lady fingers. Serves four.

Suggestions

Changing the Salad Dressing.—The making of several kinds of salad dressing isn't necessary to change the flavor. From one jar of mayonnaise, home made or commercial, we can make any number of salad dressings. For example, read over the following:

For vegetable salad, add a bit of chili sauce to the mayonnaise with a bit of salt and pepper.

For the head lettuce salad, stir in some grated cheese, salt, pepper, a bit more vinegar, chili sauce and chopped olives if you have them.

For the fruit salad add a bit of the fruit juice, a dash of cinnamon and nutmeg, salt, pepper and fold in a spoon of whipped cream.

If you want a spicier mayonnaise dressing add a bit of vinegar, a dash of salt and pepper, a generous amount of paprika, and presto! You have a new salad dressing.

Freak Diets Not Advised

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Ever since Adam had his first twinge of rheumatism and Eve said: "Uh-huh! I told you not to eat so much of that mastodon steak" (this happened November 4, 4004, B. C.), people have been blaming arthritis on diet and trying to cure it by diet.

I hinted in the article yesterday that I was somewhat skeptical of the value of dietary treatment in arthritis. Most of my reasons for this come from what the advocates of tooth-pulling and tonsil-removing say about their rivals, the diet school. With one accord they announce that they have never seen much benefit derived from dieting in chronic arthritis.

What one of the diet school says about the tooth-pulling school is as follows: "It is true that the removal of infectious foci sometimes results in improvement of the most dramatic and immediate nature, but because of such occurrences the conclusion has been drawn in too many quarters that such results are inevitable. Nothing could be further from the truth."

These are some of the things which made me say yesterday that if I had chronic arthritis I would treat it by baking, rubbing, bathing, etc., and keep my teeth and eat what I pleased.

However, I am perfectly willing to state the best views on the subject of diet held by the profession, and state them as fairly and clearly as I can, so that whoever wants to try the dietary treatment may do so.

The best views. That is important.

ant to emphasize because there is so much faddism and bunk promulgated about this. Drs. Barker and Cole, in their little book on "Rheumatism" (published by Appleton) say under the heading of diet:

"Here faddists have often held full sway. Each enthusiast has in his turn drawn after him crowds of arthritic patients who had become discouraged by the poor results that followed ordinary methods of treatment. All sorts of bizarre dietetic proposals have been made: tomatoes, lemons, oranges, grapefruit, white bread and various other single articles of food have at one time or another come under the ban. Careful studies indicate that diet has little to do with the majority of cases of chronic arthritis."

One of the worst results of all these teachings is that the poor patient will be starved and undernourished from the progressive elimination of articles from his diet. The first rule for the arthritic then is to eat plenty.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A new pamphlet, "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," by Dr. Clendening, can be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 E. Proposing Should Be Left To Man

—By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

It's an old and much discussed question, whether women should "pop the question" if they are in love and the lover seems reluctant.

Most married men declare that they were really the ones courted, and wives merely smile, recalling the days when these same men were leaping and bounding to do their slightest wish. They know that what advances they made were so deftly done that at least the men never knew it.

Now, far be it from me to insist that it is nature that causes women to wait to be coaxed into love matters—those who have the most success in captivating men. It may be that it is just generations of training in proper civility and that as women become independent financially and gain equal opportunities with men in every field they will take more of the initiative in matters of love.

And it may be, too, that Dame Nature has made men and women so that it is almost always disastrous for the latter to tell of her love unasked. That such is the case at present, is certain.

JERRY: Of course you realized that you had made a mistake in saying what you did to the young man. A girl would have to be very, very certain that her love was reciprocated if she told a man about it, unasked. It is a very embarrassing situation for a man. It would have been so much wiser to have waited until you had gotten to know him better and then maybe he would have grown fond of you. He handled the situation very well, I think.

You can't do anything now but try to fill your life with other things and wait until time has eased the pain of your disappointment. It may be that he will think over the friendship that you have had for one another and decide that he does care for you, and in that case he will come back. You can hope that, anyway. It will help.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I would like to pass my opinion about poor Rose. Poor little girl, how she must feel, while the boy goes free! No, Rose, you must not suffer alone. You must tell the boy and be married. I am one mother who will stick up for you. I have four sons, and if I caught one of them deserting a girl, I surely would make life miserable for him.

"Cheer up and go to this boy and even to his parents, and if that won't do, we have a good law to attend to these matters."

"MOTHER OF FOUR.

That's the spirit, Mother of Four. If we women would stick together and help one another at such times, men would be less likely to desert girls who loved them unwisely.

LONESOME is 15 and her mother won't let her date, although all her girl friends do and they have good times, while Lonesome is lonesome because she stays at home. She has read all the books she can find, sometimes reading them over more than once just to pass the time away.

If the books are good ones, Lonesome, it won't hurt you to read them over twice, or even three times. Can't you borrow more from your friends or a library? You can see no harm in the dances you speak of, as you are properly chaperoned by your sister and her husband, and undesirable characters are kept out. Your mother wants to safeguard her little girl, and thinks she can do it best by keeping the boys away I suppose. Try to be a little bit patient and as you grow older you will be given more liberty.

BROKEN HEARTED: No harm in calling the boy friend up and asking him for the tickets, as your girl friends want to go to the dance. That was a mean trick he played on you, however, begging you to go steady with him and to give up your other boy friend, and then losing interest.

PAT says her boy friend thinks she is angry with him because of some "poube another girl caused. But she isn't. She has tried to make him understand, but he doesn't come to see her any more and she hopes he'll see this in print and come.

I hope she does, Pat. If he doesn't, however, don't grieve too much about it, will you?

Cream Will Soothe Skin

—By GLADYS GLAD

In cold weather, girls often make the mistake of washing their wind and cold-bitten faces with soap and water when they enter their warm, snug homes. The stinging cold on the cheeks, followed by the heat of the warm room, causes their cheeks to burn. And with the idea of relieving this sensation, they foolishly dash cold water over their faces.

Such treatment is most abusive to the skin. A rich cream or a soothing skin lotion is the only thing that should be applied to the face after a trip out of doors in the cold weather. The texture of the skin may be permanently ruined if the other method is continued for any length of time.

An excellent treatment for skin that is subjected to long hours of exposure to cold air, is an oil facial. The process is very simple. First cleanse your skin thoroughly with a filmy, liquifying cleansing cream. Then heat a bit of pure olive oil, and dip into it small pieces of gauze. Arrange the oil-soaked pieces of gauze on the face in the form of a mask, and pat them gently into contact with the skin.

Allow the oil mask to remain on the skin for at least 15 minutes. Lie down and relax during this short period of time. Then remove the gauze, and apply a skin tonic to close the pores. After such a treatment, you will find your face able to withstand most rigorous weather, without any resultant flaking and cracking.

When the skin is in a very dry condition, quicker results in softening it may always be obtained by heating the grease that is used. Some beauty specialists also advise that women have oil mani-cures during the cold weather. In the oil manicure, the fingertips are soaked in warm oil, instead of water. Such manicures are excellent for the nails, but not really essential. For, at this time of year, all of us should apply grease to our fingertips every night, to keep the cuticle from getting dry and heavy. This practice alone should be sufficient to keep the nails in excellent condition.

CENTRAL HIGH WILL MEET HOME CADETS IN ANNUAL CONTEST

Cadets Anxious To Gain
First Win Over
Bucs

Xenia Central fears the O. S. and S. O. Home football team.

The Bucs will mingle with the Cadet gridders at Cox Athletic Field Friday afternoon in their annual domestic gridiron dispute and are anticipating the hardest kind of a battle.

Xenia footballers have every reason to view Friday's tilt with anxiety. In former years the game was scheduled as a "breather" but this time every indication points to a real struggle for survival.

Represented by its strongest eleven in recent years, the Home is face to face with an opportunity to distinguish itself. A Home football team has never beaten a Xenia High eleven and on Friday will come the big chance for the Cadets with the result of the contest a toss-up.

The Cadets have won four games and lost three while Xenia has won only one, tied one and dropped five.

McKinley, Snyder and Yowell are the backfield boys who will be counted upon to gain the yardage for the Home. McKinley also does the punting and is an accomplished kicker, while Yowell, center, is particularly adept at place kicking points after touchdowns.

Having tasted victory for the first time this season, the Bucaneers may be hard to get along with, however, Friday. The squad is in better physical shape than at any previous time in recent weeks and Coach Wilson's proteges are hoping to make the last half of their season's schedule as successful as the first half was disastrous.

The kick-off Friday will be at 3 o'clock with Brannin as the referee for the game, Paul Turnbull as umpire and Paul Fuller as head linesman.

CEDARVILLE HIGH WILL CLOSE SEASON

Cedarville High School's football team hopes to bring a successful season to a triumphant close Friday afternoon when it battles the Mt. Sterling High School eleven on the Cedarville High gridiron in its concluding game this fall. The kick-off will be at 2:45 o'clock. So far this season Cedarville grid-ders have won five games and lost only two, the reverses being inflicted by McClain High of Greenfield and the O. S. and S. O. Home of Xenia. Cedarville's eleven has lacked weight this year but what it lacked along physical lines it more than made up in aggressive-ness.

The kick-off Friday will be at 3 o'clock with Brannin as the referee for the game, Paul Turnbull as umpire and Paul Fuller as head linesman.

THREE MORE VOLLEY BALL TEAMS PASS

In the second round of the Central Junior High School elimination volleyball ball series at Central High gymnasium Wednesday morning three more teams were eliminated from further play.

Wooster defeated Mt. Union 22 to 15 in the first contest but was extended to the limit to turn the trick. It was through the play of Latimer and Smith that the winners accomplished the feat while Clark and Paxton did their best to hold down the victors.

The next two games were easy victories for the University of Dayton and Wilmington. Dayton defeated Oberlin 51 to 14 with Glenn leading the attack, and Wilmington rolled up a one-sided score of 79 to 16 against Western Reserve. Yeakley and Moore were the high lights on the Wilmington team while Cummings tried to keep his mates in the running by his fine play.

By next Tuesday night one of these three winning teams will be crowned junior high champs and will have earned the right to meet the senior high champions in the school championship series.

WILL ASSUME SEAT

Isaac S. Dines, city commissioner-elect, is expected to attend his first meeting at the bi-monthly session of City Commission at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night. The new commissioner was recently elected to serve out the unexpired term of the late E. E. Lighthiser. No matters of importance are scheduled to be considered by the commission.

EAST END NEWS

The Church Aid Society of Mid-dlerun Baptist Church will meet with Mrs. H. Scott, E. Church St., Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Marietta Moore is president and Mrs. Edna Hicks is secretary.

COACH PATTERSON WILL CALL JUNIOR HIGH COURT RECRUITS

Coach Glen Patterson's "Little Buccaneer" football squad having dispersed, he will now turn his attention to basketball for the remainder of the winter. Coach Patterson will issue his first call for junior high basketball candidates next Monday or Tuesday and practice will begin at once.

A squad of about fifty boys is expected to answer the call and from this number ten players will be selected to represent junior high on the court this winter. About fifteen of the remaining players who look the best will be retained on a "B" squad for further instruction during the year but will not play on any regular team. The members of the first squad will hold practice sessions three times a week while players of the "B" squad will practice but once a week.

"Pat" will have five men back from last year's squad with which to build his team this season. Three of these boys, Batson, Glenn, and Latimer, saw a great deal of action last year while Weinart and McElree broke into quite a number of contests. Patterson will also have some promising material coming up from the grade schools that will be a big help in developing a winning combination. Among those will be Randall, Crawford, Hilderbrand, Huston, Dorman, Leveck and others who played on the championship grade teams last year.

Coach Patterson has never had an undefeated team since he has coached the junior high outfit but has high hopes of turning the trick this year. His best teams were in 1928 and 1929 and several of the players who made last year's success are now members of the high school team. Players who played under Patterson and are now members of the varsity are Dalton, Ralls, Thompson, and Bell.

Some of the opponents to be met this winter by Coach Patterson's "pets" are: Washington C. H., Waynesville, Port William, Bryan Jr. H. of Yellow Springs, New Antioch, Oakwood Jr. H. of Dayton, Roosevelt Jr. H. of Springfield, and Lebanon. The junior high games will be played as preliminaries to the high school games this winter.

Next season, however, Coach Lou McCoy announces that the Xenia independent football team will be organized early and will perhaps play a full ten-game schedule with leading pro eleven in this locality.

The team this season, while having a strong defense, was weak on offense and was fortunate to win its last two games. The team next fall will be strengthened and the offense bolstered considerably.

THREE CHOIRS WILL BE HEARD SUNDAY

Each of the three choirs of the First M. E. Church will sing a special number at the church services Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock, it is announced. The adult choir's number will be "Prepare Ye the Way of the Lord," by Garrett, the junior choir will sing "Days of Youth" by Meredith and the children's choir will present "Jesus Loves Even Me" by Bliss.

As an added feature to the musical service Miss Leona Keller will sing a solo.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED

by Phil

Another basketball season is in the offing and Xenia Central High will soon lay football uniforms aside and begin practice for the cage season.

Having won the Miami Valley League court title for the last three straight seasons without the loss of a single game, the Bucs will have a reputation to live up to this season. The big question is can they do it?

In our opinion they can, despite the loss by graduation of Joe Smittle and John Hurley, all-league guard and center, respectively. Birch Bell and Freddie Dalton, the southward forwards, will be back, as will Lester Price, who developed rapidly last season into a fine guard. Howard Thompson will probably be available for the other guard position or he may be used at center.

The most pressing need will probably be an elongated center, something which basketball teams cannot afford to be without these days. Getting the tip-off gives a team a big edge in a game. The sport, junior, who jumped at the center position for the second team last season, might fill the bill although lacking experience. He is tall enough and can get the tip-off and is a dead shot. His greatest weakness would be his floor game and this deficiency should be remedied in time.

Xenia Central gridders may have had more than their share of misfortune this season when it came to injuries but they have been getting good breaks from the weather man all season. It may have been windy at times but every Buc-cancer game has so far been staged under unusually good climatic conditions. The Bucs have never had to perform on a muddy gridiron or in the rain or when the weather has been too cold for comfort.

On the shelf for the last three weeks due to a leg injury, Carlton Lunsford, Xenia griddier on the University of Cincinnati football eleven, about whom we have written quite frequently this fall, may be able to return to the lineup against Wittenberg at Cincinnati Saturday, it is disclosed.

"Whitey" was the subject of a complimentary article appearing in a Cincinnati newspaper Wednesday which said:

"There was much rejoicing in the University of Cincinnati football camp Tuesday night when 'Whitey' Lunsford, crashing Bearcat end, put in his first appearance in uniform since the Ohio Wesleyan game, when he injured his leg. 'Lunsford' was beginning to show great promise when injured and was keenly missed in the Ohio U., Denison and Marietta games. The husky athlete is fearless and crashes into heavy interference as though he enjoys it. In fact 'Whitey' does enjoy football.

"It was a keen disappointment to him to be out of uniform for the last three games. He worked out with Varsity Tuesday night just to keep the leg limbered up. If he is able to get it thoroughly loosened up by Saturday, Coach George Babcock may allow him to start at his old place at left end."

THREE MORE VOLLEY BALL TEAMS PASS

In the second round of the Central Junior High School elimination volleyball ball series at Central High gymnasium Wednesday morning three more teams were eliminated from further play.

Wooster defeated Mt. Union 22 to 16 in the first contest but was extended to the limit to turn the trick. It was through the play of Latimer and Smith that the winners accomplished the feat while Clark and Paxton did their best to hold down the victors.

The next two games were easy victories for the University of Dayton and Wilmington. Dayton defeated Oberlin 51 to 14 with Glenn leading the attack, and Wilmington rolled up a one-sided score of 70 to 16 against Western Reserve. Yeakley and Moore were the high lights on the Wilmington team while Cummings tried to keep his mates in the running by his fine play.

By next Tuesday night one of these three winning teams will be crowned junior high champs and will have earned the right to meet the senior high champions in the school championship series.

WILL ASSUME SEAT

Isaac S. Dines, city commissioner-elect, is expected to attend his first meeting at the bi-monthly session of City Commission at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night. The new commissioner was recently elected to serve out the unexpired term of the late E. E. Lightner. No matters of importance are scheduled to be considered by the commission.

EAST END NEWS

The Church Aid Society of Mid-dlerun Baptist Church will meet with Mrs. H. Scott, E. Church St., Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Marietta Moore is president and Mrs. Edna Hicks is secretary.

Domestic Football Battle Here On Friday

CENTRAL HIGH WILL MEET HOME CADETS IN ANNUAL CONTEST

Cadets Anxious To Gain First Win Over Bucs

Xenia Central fears the O. S. and S. O. Home football team. The Bucs will mingle with the Cadet gridders at Cox Athletic Field Friday afternoon in their annual domestic gridiron dispute and are anticipating the hardest kind of a battle.

Xenia footballers have every reason to view Friday's tilt with anxiety. In former years the game was scheduled as a "breather" but this time every indication points to a real struggle for survival.

Represented by its strongest eleven in recent years, the Home is face to face with an opportunity to distinguish itself. A Home football team has never beaten Xenia High eleven and on Friday will come the big chance for the Cadets with the result of the contest a toss-up.

The Cadets have won four games and lost three while Xenia has won only one, tied one and dropped five. McKinley, Snyder and Yowell are the backfield boys who will be counted upon to gain the yardage for the Home. McKinley also does the punting and is an accomplished kicker, while Wolfe, center, is particularly adept at place kicking points after touchdowns.

Having tasted victory for the first time this season, the Buc-cancers may be hard to get along with, however, Friday. The squad is in better physical shape than at any previous time in recent weeks and Coach Wilson's proteges are hoping to make the last half of their season's schedule as successful as the first half was disastrous.

The kick-off Friday will be at 3 o'clock with Brannin as the referee for the game, Paul Turnbull as umpire and Paul Fuller as head linesman.

CEDARVILLE HIGH WILL CLOSE SEASON

Cedarville High School's football team hopes to bring a successful season to a triumphant close Friday afternoon when it battles the Mt. Sterling High School eleven on the Cedarville High gridiron in its concluding game this fall. The kick-off will be at 2:45 o'clock. So far this season Cedarville gridders have won five games and lost only two, the reverses being inflicted by McClain High of Greenfield and the O. S. and S. O. Home of Xenia. Cedarville's eleven has lacked weight this year but what it lacked in physical lines it more than made up in aggressive play.

COACH PATTERSON WILL CALL JUNIOR HIGH COURT RECRUITS

Coach Glen Patterson's "Little Buccaneer" football squad having dispersed, he will now turn his attention to basketball for the remainder of the winter. Coach Patterson will issue his first call for junior high basketball candidates next Monday or Tuesday and practice will begin at once.

A squad of about fifty boys is expected to answer the call and from this number ten players will be selected to represent junior high on the court this winter. About fifteen of the remaining players who look the best will be retained on a "B" squad for further instruction during the year but will not play on any regular team. The members of the first squad will hold practice sessions three times a week while players of the "B" squad will practice but once a week.

"Pat" will have five men back from last year's squad with which to build his team this season. Three of these boys, Batson, Glenn, and Latimer, saw a great deal of action last year while Weingart and McElree broke into quite a number of contests. Patterson will also have some promising material coming up from the grade schools that will be a big help in developing a winning combination. Among those will be Randall, Crawford, Hilderbrand, Huston, Dorman, Leveck and others who played on the championship grade teams last year.

INDEPENDENT GRID TEAM ENDS SEASON; PLAN TEAM FOR 1931

The Xenia Merchants semi-pro football team, which has enjoyed an abbreviated but entirely successful season, has been disbanded for the current year. No more games will be scheduled, it is announced.

The Merchants played and won three games on the last three Sundays, defeating the Springfield Bulldogs, 19 to 0, the Dayton Guards, 7 to 6 and the South Park Shamrocks of Dayton, 6 to 0. The first two games were played away from home and the third tilt in Xenia.

The local grid eleven was not organized until late this season and the fact the local Lang Chevrolet Co., professional basketball team, has inaugurated practice, is given as the reason of the sudden curtailment of the playing season. Some of the regular members of the football team will perform on the court team and the two sports conflict.

Next season, however, Coach Lou McCoy announces that a Xenia independent football team will be organized early and will perhaps play a full ten-game schedule with leading pro elevens in this locality.

The team this season, while having a strong defense, was weak on offense and was fortunate to win its last two games. The team next fall will be strengthened and the offense bolstered considerably.

THREE CHOIRS WILL BE HEARD SUNDAY

Each of the three choirs of the First M. E. Church will sing a special number at the church services Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock, it is announced. The adult choir's number will be "Prepare Ye the Way of the Lord," by Garrett, the junior choir will sing "Days of Youth" by Meredith and the children's choir will present "Jesus Loves Even Me," by Bliss. As an added feature to the musical service Miss Leona Keller will sing a solo.

LANG BASKETBALL TEAM HAS PRACTICE

Members of the newly-organized Lang Chevrolet Co. professional basketball squad indulged in their first practice in the Wilberforce University gymnasium Wednesday night in preparation for the opening game of their 1930-31 court season scheduled for about two weeks hence. Players who worked out for the first time included Bob Yeakley, Fred "Bulldog" Smith, Bill LeSourd, Howell Huston, Lee Ruse, Bob Gagner, "Pinky" Wilson, Joe Smittle and Noland Putnam, the latter having performed on Kenyon College's cage quintet.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The copper stocks and the utilities were inclined to slightly higher prices in the early trading today in the face of fairly heavy profit taking in the industrials which led in Wednesday's closing sport. Weakness in Erie, which dropped 3 1/4 points to the year's low price at 26 5/8, unsettled the rails, while fresh selling appeared in the amusements, Loews dropping off three points to 53 1/2.

CHICAGO IS BUILDING FOR HER 1933 WORLD'S FAIR

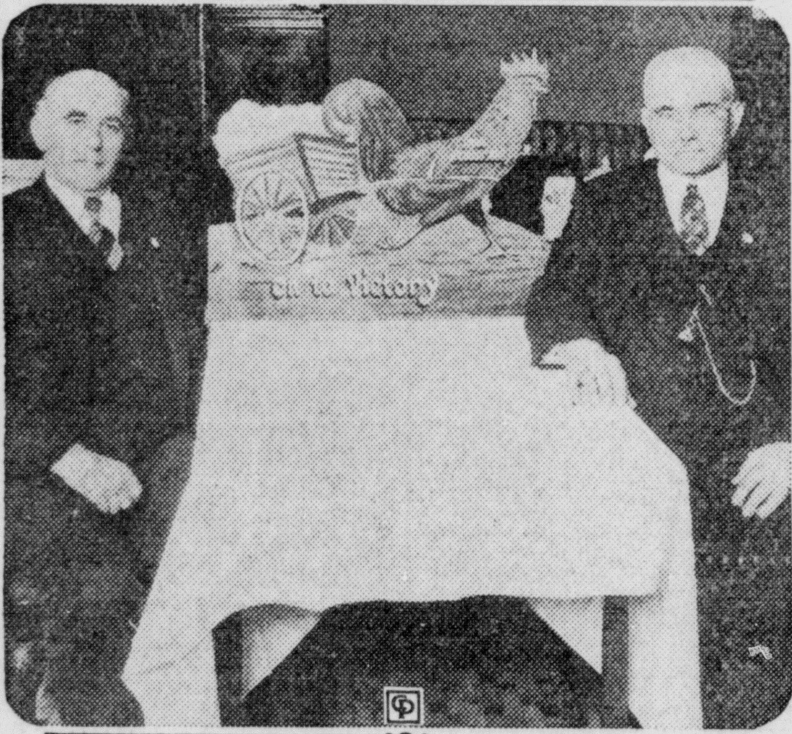

Although Chicago's World's Fair will not be held until 1933, buildings already are rising along the shores of Lake Michigan. Top left, the Administration, on the Outer drive; top, right, skeleton of the Transportation building; below, reproduction of Fort Dearborn, scene of the famous massacre, which is being erected on the exhibition grounds.

Gay Spender Comes to Grief

George W. Griffin (left), vice-treasurer of the Smith-Corona Typewriting Company, who, according to Federal officers, spent in Broadway's night clubs $200,000 he stole from his employers. He is held on charges of using the mail to defraud and for attempted swindling. His wife, Bessie Griffin (right), was also held on charges of violating the Sullivan Law.

'LOYAL DEMOCRATS' GET TOGETHER

This rooster, perched on the table between Senator-elect John H. Bankhead, left, and Governor-elect B. M. Miller, talking over their victory, at Birmingham, Ala., is a famous bird. He's the "Loyal Democrat" whose likeness on an emblem was widely used in the successful Democratic state campaign.

PERSHING ENROLLS IN RED CROSS

Sarah Worthing, pretty Red Cross worker, enrolling General John J. Pershing as the Red Cross drive gets under way. The man who led the American forces in the World War needed little persuasion for he is fully cognizant of the great work rendered by that organization during and after the great conflict.

Wedding Date Announced

Mr. James M. Cox, Jr., son of former Governor of Dayton, Ohio, on November 21 will marry Miss Helen Rumsey (left), daughter of Lee Rumsey, of New York. The nuptials will take place at St. Bartholomew's chapel in New York.

WIDE-OPEN VOTING IN VIRGINIA

Mrs. F. A. Humm gives an example of "wide open" voting in Virginia. They are shown casting their ballots in one of the old-style booths at Rosslyn, Va. It was raining—so they voted "wet."

Nation Honors War Ace

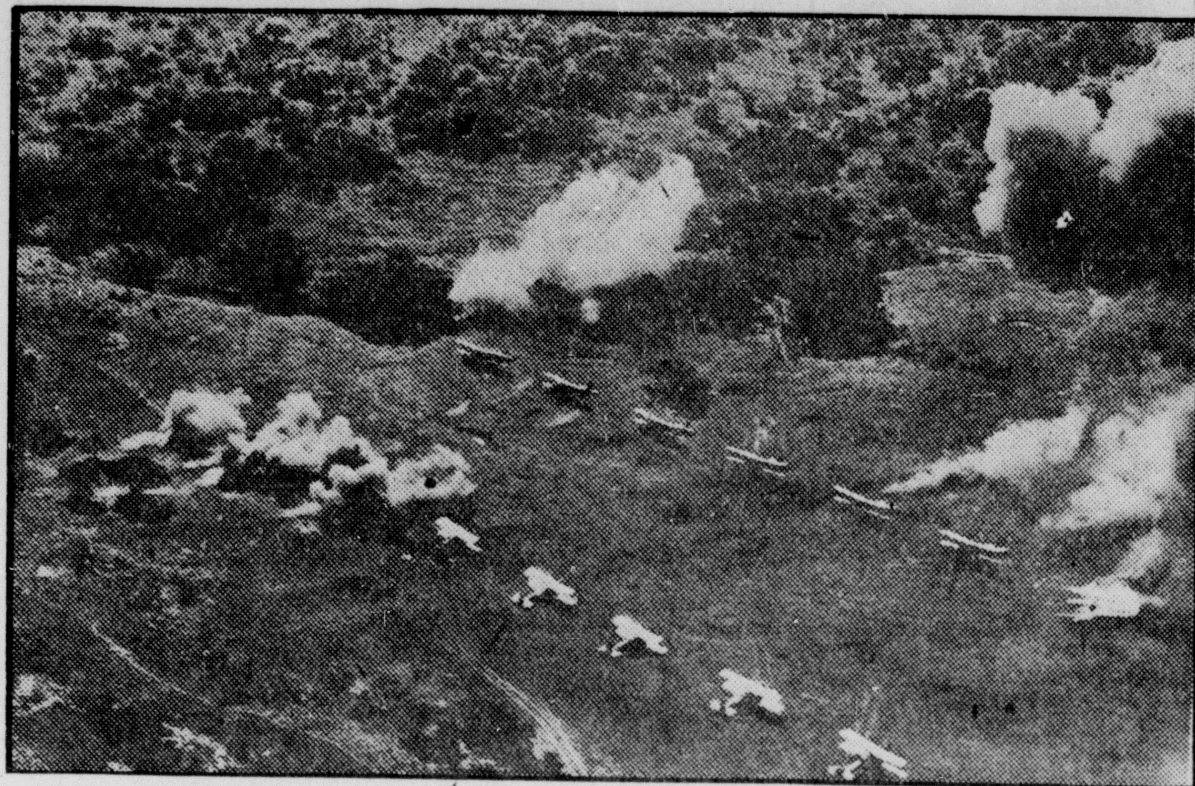

President Hoover with Captain Eddie Rickenbacker after presenting him with the Congressional Medal of Honor for his heroic air battles during the World War. The citation was made twelve years after America's greatest war ace electrified the world with his daring encounters in the clouds.

TRIO IN COAST TRAGEDY

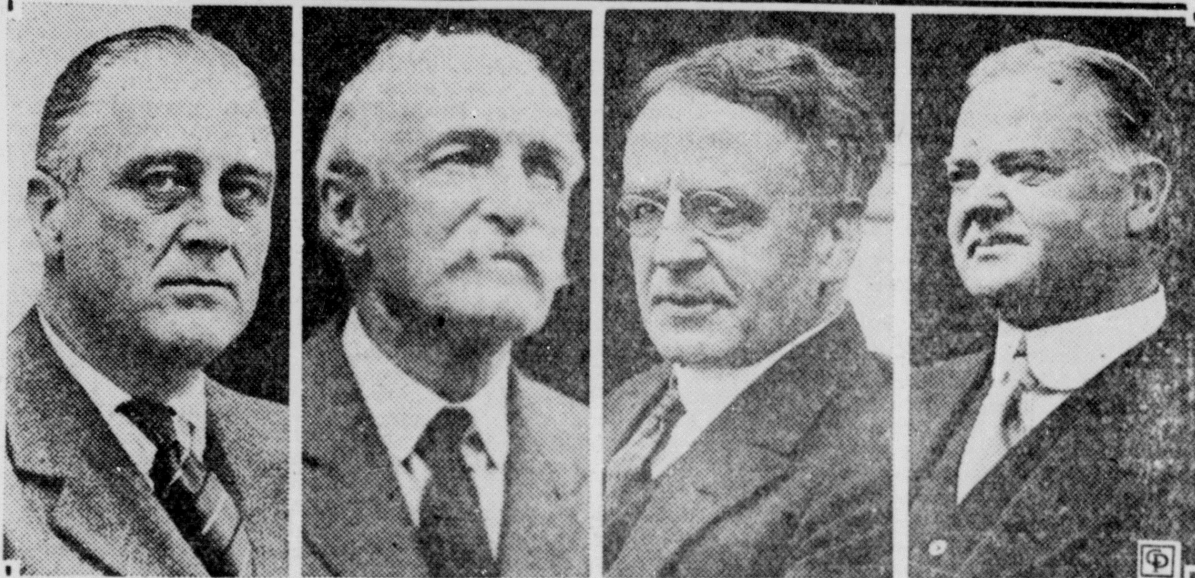

Two suspects were being held by the police in connection with the murder of Mrs. Merle Ellis, 22-year-old mother, who was slain while she slept beside her 18-month-old baby boy, John, in her Los Angeles, Cal., home. Although Emery Ellis (lower) denies any connection with the crime, he is being held for questioning.

ANCIENT WARRIORS DIE IGNOBLE DEATHS

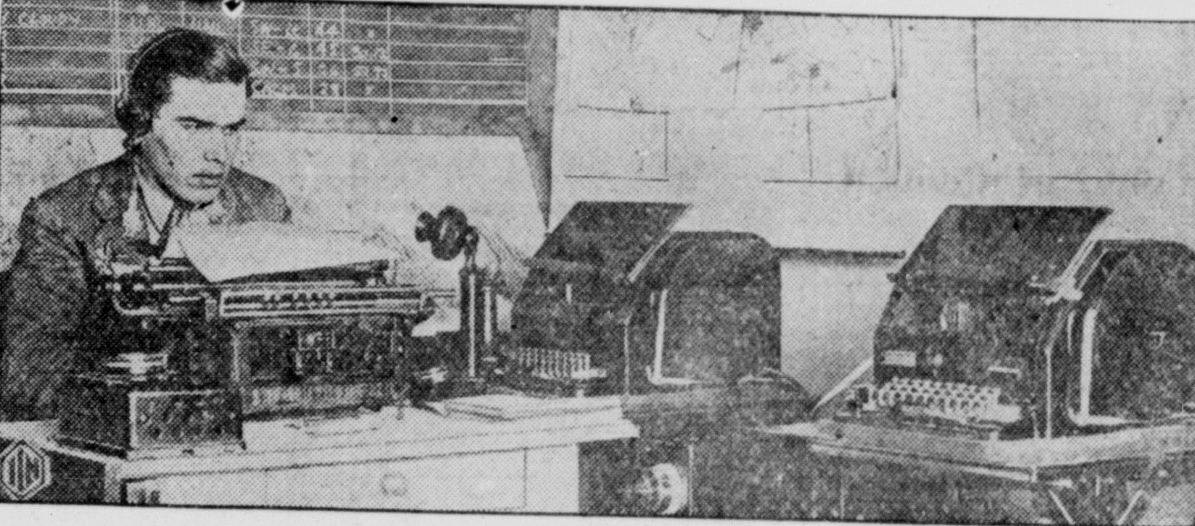

After serving for many years in Uncle Sam's aerial army, these doomed planes of another age are made the targets of their successors' bullets and bombs. One of the obsolete planes used in the bombing maneuvers has already burst into flames, and three others lie within the center of impact from the bombardment.

MENTIONED AS PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES IN 1932

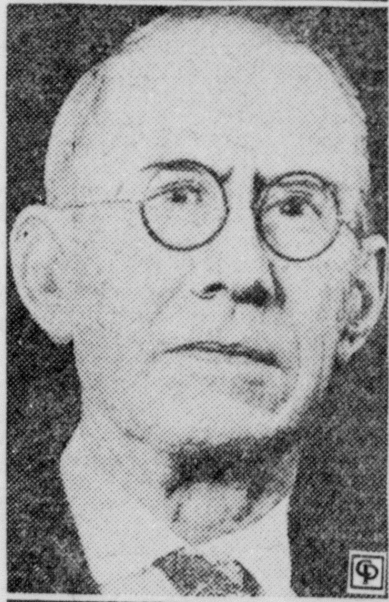

These four men loom as presidential contenders, in 1932: President Hoover, Dwight W. Morrow, newly-elected Republican senator from New Jersey on a wet platform; Gifford Pinchot, Republican governor-elect of Pennsylvania, a dry, and Franklin D. Roosevelt, re-elected Democratic governor of New York, on a wet platform.

Collecting Weather Reports—by Ticker

Hourly weather reports from official observers stationed on mountains and in valleys are coming in on ticker tape over these machines at the Oakland Airport, Oakland, Cal. The observer shown above is coordinating the reports for the use of air pilots.

'Unexpected Wealth

When a federal referee in bankruptcy, in 1926, turned back to him as a non-asset a small river bottom tract of land at the edge of Oklahoma City, Boston Wilson of Oklahoma City had little idea that 1930 would see a 10,000-barrel oil gusher brought in on the tract. He has a sizable interest in the well.

IT'S NO THANKSGIVING FOR HIM

There's a reason for the strained look on Mr. Turkey's countenance—he has just heard a rumor that Thanksgiving comes in November, and he is recalling the fate of his ancestors.

Famous Singer Ill on Australian Liner

Dame Nellie Melba, 71-year-old world-famed operatic soprano, was so ill when she arrived at Fremantle, West Australia, aboard the liner Cathay that her physician forbade her landing. Dame Melba, whose name in private life is Helen Porter Mitchell, was born near Melbourne, Australia, and took the name "Melba" from the latter city.

Seeks Cross Country Record

Martha C. Bevins, attractive aviatrix, waving from her pacer monoplane as she takes off for a trial flight. She is set for the first leg of the transcontinental flight in which she will attempt to lower the record established by Mrs. Keith Miller.

Solon Sentenced

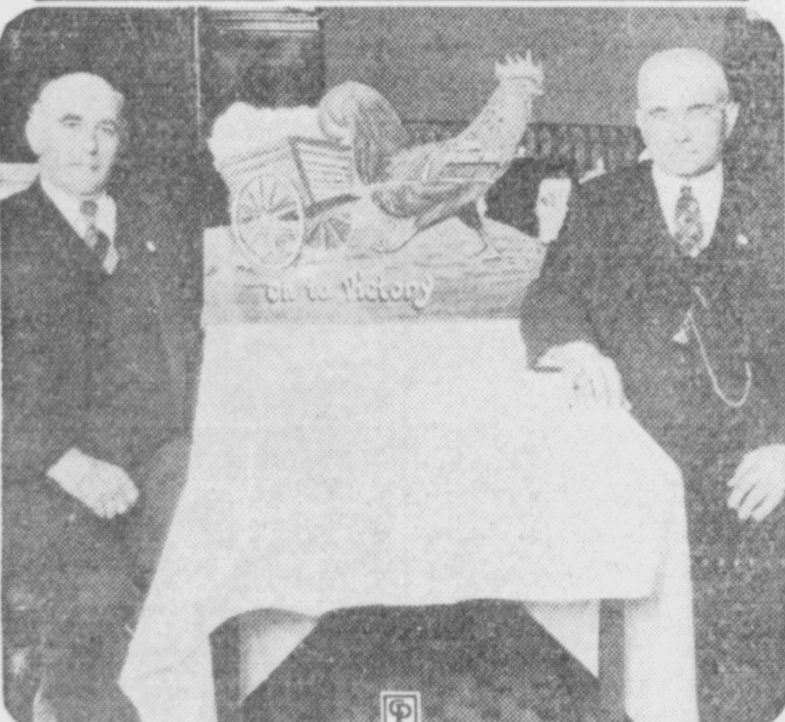

Still protesting his innocence, J. H. Kirby, 23-year-old Georgia legislator from Forsyth county, is seeking a new trial after being sentenced to serve two years in the state penitentiary, on a charge of holding up an Atlanta loan office and taking $106. When first questioned he said a woman's honor had sealed his lips and "visions of angry husbands and shotguns" forced him to lie.

Bombay Society Girl Divorced by Banker

The former Marjorie Burke-Wise, well-known Bombay society girl, has given her consent to the divorce decree just granted her husband, Givault Terrell Thach, wealthy New York banker. Thach is said to have selected Mrs. Charlotte Lewis, divorcee step-daughter of Harry F. Guggenheim, Ambassador to Cuba, as his second wife.

AUTO THIEVES TAKE CAR WITH CLOTHING WORTH $1,500 HERE

Thieves believed to have trailed her from Cleveland to Xenia broke into the Xenia Garage Co. S. Dayton St. Tuesday night and stole a 1931 model Buick coupe with a trunk containing clothing valued at $1,500, belonging to Mrs. Ida Huffman, Sovereign Hotel, Cleveland, O., who had stopped here overnight on a motor trip to Florida.

Mrs. Huffman told police two men and a woman in an auto apparently followed her from Cleveland to Columbus. She said she became nervous after driving through Columbus without stopping, continued on to Xenia. Arriving here she stored her auto in the garage and spent the night at the Frances Inn.

During the night the rear door of the garage was forced open and her car was missing.

Mrs. Huffman returned to Cleveland Wednesday after acquainting authorities with the robbery.

The coupe bore license number E72,265.

WOMAN PAINFULLY HURT IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Roscoe J. McCorkell, 33, of 222 E. Church St., is recovering in McClellan Hospital from severe injuries suffered when a sedan in which she was riding, driven by Mrs. Tiffin Walker, Jamestown, skidded and overturned on the Dayton-Xenia Pike, half a mile west of Treblein, Monday afternoon. Mrs. Walker escaped with minor bruises.

Mrs. McCorkell sustained four rib fractures, a fractured left shoulder, a large lacerated wound over the right eye on the forehead and her left ear was practically severed.

The car was being driven toward Xenia from Dayton when the accident occurred. A passing motorist brought the women to the Xenia hospital at 4:30 p. m.

AMELIA'S ROMANCE

While both have denied the reports, Miss Amelia Earhart, first woman transatlantic flyer, and George Palmer Putnam, New York publisher, both above, may be wed, according to reports from Noank, Conn., where the two obtained a marriage license. Putnam was the backer of Miss Earhart's flight to Wales.

YOUNG PEOPLE PLAN SPECIAL SERVICE

November 16 will be celebrated as Young People's Sunday at the Paintersville M. P. Church and an invitation is extended to all young people in the community to attend services at the church on that day. Sunday School will be held at 10 a. m. and a program will be given by the young people of the church. HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The senior class held a short meeting Tuesday morning for the purpose of deciding more about the Gen-Sen campaign it is putting on at this time. The school annual will cost $1.50 this year and 400 copies at this sum must be subscribed by next Tuesday morning or the annual will not be published. A special campaign is being conducted in the school this week and those who are not reached by some student and desire an annual are asked to call the principal's office before the date set and make arrangements for their book.

The sophomore class has finished its monthly hall sales and the Commercial Club is now in charge for the next month.

The boys and girls glee clubs have begun practice on their annual minstrel show to be presented some time in December. Their operetta was a large hit and they expect to make the minstrel show as pleasing.

The new school band is getting a real workout lately and is proving that it is a necessity that is needed around the school and community. It makes a neat appearance in the new blue and white uniforms and members are quite proud of them. A few new members are being added as the interest is growing as well as the organization.

The H-Y Club held its regular weekly meeting Monday night at 7:30 and a large representation was present for the short meeting which took place. A short business meeting was held and then a discussion period followed. The club is planning to give a picture show in the school auditorium some day next week in order to build up its treasury which fell considerably when the boys erected the scoreboard at the football field.

The Agriculture Club held its regular monthly meeting Monday night in the form of an oyster stew. Seventeen hungry members gathered for the occasion. A short business meeting followed the luncheon and the meeting was adjourned at an early hour. Loren Harner, president, presided over the meeting.

The Latin Clubs have been holding some interesting meetings lately and are among some of the most active clubs in the school.

The junior high-freshman football squad has turned in its suits for the season but that is not quite the last to be heard of these players. They will be awarded their letters within a few days which will be in the nature of a large "C". The boys did not win a game this season but showed that with a little coaching and experience they will become real high school stars in the future. They gained a great deal from this year's experience and the practice they had will give them an idea of what to expect in later years.

The high school debate team, under the direction of Mr. Shumaker, has not been holding any meetings lately but is studying its subjects and will resume practice within a few days.

The student council held a called meeting Monday morning and talked over some important matters that pertained to the student body. Another meeting was held Thursday morning for the purpose of creating better order in the halls during school hours.

The senior French Club held its bi-weekly meeting Thursday afternoon and after a short business meeting an interesting French program was carried out by members of the club. President Charles Adair appointed a committee to make arrangements for the next meeting two weeks hence.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

AUTO THIEVES TAKE CAR WITH CLOTHING WORTH $1,500 HERE

Thieves believed to have trailed her from Cleveland to Xenia broke into the Xenia Garage Co., S. Detroit St., Tuesday night and stole a 1931 model Buick coupe with a trunk containing clothing valued at $1,500, belonging to Mrs. Ida Huffman, Sovereign Hotel, Cleveland, O., who had stopped here over night on a motor trip to Florida.

Mrs. Huffman told police two men and a woman in an auto apparently followed her from Cleveland to Columbus. She said she became nervous and driving through Columbus without stopping, continued on to Xenia. Arriving here she stored her auto in the garage and spent the night at the Frances Inn.

During the night the rear door of the garage was forced open and her car was missing.

Mrs. Huffman returned to Cleveland Wednesday after acquainting authorities with the robbery.

The coupe bore license number E72,265.

WOMAN PAINFULLY HURT IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Roscoe J. McCorkell, 33, of 222 E. Church St., is recovering in McClellan Hospital from severe injuries suffered when a sedan in which she was riding, driven by Mrs. Tiffin Walker, Jamestown, skidded and overturned on the Dayton-Xenia Pike, half a mile west of Treblein, Monday afternoon. Mrs. Walker escaped with minor bruises.

Mrs. McCorkell sustained four rib fractures, a fractured left shoulder, a large lacerated wound over the right eye on the forehead and her left ear was practically severed.

The car was being driven toward Xenia from Dayton when the accident occurred. A passing motorist brought the women to the Xenia hospital at 4:30 p. m.

AMELIA'S ROMANCE

While both have denied the reports, Miss Amelia Earhart, first woman transatlantic flyer, and George Palmer Putnam, New York publisher, both above, may be wed, according to reports from Noank, Conn., where the two obtained a marriage license. Putnam was the backer of Miss Earhart's flight to Wales.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The senior class held a short meeting Tuesday morning for the purpose of deciding more about the Cen-Sen campaign it is putting on at this time. The school annual will cost $1.50 this year and 400 copies at this sum must be subscribed by next Tuesday morning or the annual will not be published. A special campaign is being conducted in the school this week and those who are not reached by some student and dealer an annual are asked to call the principal's office before the date set and make arrangements for their book.

The sophomore class has finished its monthly hall sales and the Commercial Club is now in charge for the next month.

The boys and girls glee clubs have begun practice on their annual minstrel show to be presented some time in December. Their operetta was a large hit and they expect to make the minstrel show as pleasing.

The new school band is getting a real workout lately and is proving that it is a necessity that is needed around the school and community. It makes a neat appearance in the new blue and white uniforms and members are quite proud of them. A few new members are being added as the interest is growing as well as the organization.

The Hi-Y Club held its regular weekly meeting Monday night at 7:30 and a large representation was present for the short meeting which took place. A short business meeting was held and then a discussion period followed. The club is planning to give a picture show in the school auditorium some day next week in order to build up its treasury which fell considerably when the boys erected the score board at the football field.

The Agriculture Club held its regular monthly meeting Monday night in the form of an oyster stew. Seventeen hungry members gathered for the occasion. A short business meeting followed the luncheon and the meeting was adjourned at an early hour. Loren Harner, president, presided over the meeting.

The Latin Clubs have been holding some interesting meetings lately and are among some of the most active clubs in the school.

The junior high-freshman football squad has turned in its suits for the season but that is not quite the last to be heard of these players. They will be awarded their letters within a few days which will be in the nature of a large "C." The boys did not win a game this season but showed that with a little coaching and experience they will become real high school stars in the future. They gained a great deal from this year's experience and the practice they had will give them an idea of what to expect in later years.

The high school debate team, under the direction of Mr. Shumaker, has not been holding any meetings lately but is studying its subjects and will resume practice within a few days.

The student council held a called meeting Monday morning and talked over some important matters that pertained to the student body. Another meeting was held Thursday morning for the purpose of creating better order in the halls during school hours.

CHAPTER 38

Ten minutes later found Inspector Linscott posting his two aides and going blithely up in the elevator with the accommodating surgeon. They rang and waited. As after several minutes there was no response to their repeated ringings and knocks, the Inspector began to look anxious. He was meditating on his next action, when the porter, alarmed by the disturbance, arrived on the scene.

"Can you let me in here?" asked Linscott, explaining quickly his errand.

"I can, sir. But Mr. Bentley left about fifteen minutes ago, sir," was the answer.

"And where's his valet?"

"Valet? He had none, sir. Not that I know of!"

"Damn!" muttered the crestfallen Inspector. "It must have been that message of yours." He turned to the surgeon.

"But I didn't give any hint..."

"The fellow's an astute devil! He doesn't need a hint. The mere fact of your coming again made him suspicious. But now we are here we may as well go in and have a look." He motioned the porter to unlock the door.

The porter promptly obeyed, and, leading the way, turned up the lights. They found themselves in a comfortable sitting room. It was the usual bachelor's apartment, well furnished, but with the customary additions of personal taste. There were elk's horns on the walls and over the doors, and large photographs of Canadian scenery. Over the mantel was a small collection of weapons, such as Canadian trappers might have, which included a half-dozen of knives. Evidently Donald Flint, alias Morris Bentley, for he was now sure that they were one and the same—had retained a sentimental attachment for the country of his birth, where he had spent so many years of his life. One would think these fellows would like to forget the place where they committed their crimes and would keep such reminders out of sight. But no! There was evidently some fascination for them in souvenirs of violence, which doubtless exercised a curious hypnotic effect over their possessors. On the table was a half-dozen box of cigars, a half-dozen pipes, and a tobacco-pouch, evidently forgotten in their owner's haste to make good his escape.

In silence the small party proceeded into the bedroom. Here everything was in great disorder. The bed showed that it had recently been slept in. The covers had evidently been flung aside with violence. The chest of drawers, all of which were open, had been ransacked and some of their contents quite about the floor. It was quite clear that the owner was in a desperate hurry to get away. Seeing a telephone by the bed, Inspector Linscott suddenly bethought himself and, going up to the small table, picked up the instrument.

"God!" he exclaimed. "The fellow has cut the wire!"

He rapidly scanned the desk on which the instrument had been standing. Then he searched the drawers. From one he drew forth an envelope with a smothered exclamation. Sir Phineas leaned forward to read over his shoulder: "Donald Flint, Esq., Curzon Street, London, W."

"That proves he's your man!" I thought so when you came to me!"

The surgeon's voice rang with a new note of excitement.

"I wish it told me where he had absconded to," was the answer. After a moment's thought the Inspector added: "We'd better be getting up to Curzon Street. Something tells me that is where he went from here, though how he hopes to escape my men..."

"You can't go on the way or you can get lost just outside. There is a stand near the Strand. You've been in leading me to this lair!"

The porter, who had been watching and listening in amazement, now asked: "If Mr. Bentley comes back here, what shall I do?"

"Nothing," Linscott answered good-naturedly. "I'll leave a couple of my men to attend to him. But he won't come back. Never fear!" There was a ring of confidence in the Inspector's voice.

"He left here in a hurry, and he left for good, if I know anything about desperate men. I'll leave a man on guard just outside the door."

The Inspector gave his men rapid directions and, after a hasty farewell to the surgeon, was in a taxi speeding towards Mayfair. The surgeon stood staring wistfully after the departing vehicle. His latent sense of adventure had been stirred in the half-hour he spent with the Inspector, and he would have gladly foregone dinner for the privilege of pursuing the adventure to its finish.

Linscott stopped his taxi around a corner, out of sight of the entrance to Flint's house, and, giving the man an exorbitant tip, hurried up to a stranger who was loitering not far from the house.

"Has anyone gone in?" he asked in undertone.

The nondescript idler replied: "No, Inspector, no one but a lame beggar..."

"A what? When?" interrupted the Inspector excitedly.

"About ten minutes ago, a lame beggar. He must have been all right for I saw him go in." Jim was the other idler who was lounging immediately in front of the entrance.

"Is the place surrounded?"

"Entirely, sir. There's twelve of us."

"Very well. You draw nearer," he ordered. "I have a burning desire to see this lame beggar."

"There he comes now," replied the other as a stooped man with a long beard and colored muffler came up from the basement of the house on crutches. "He's probably a relative of one of the servants."

His explanation was falling on vacant air. By this time Inspector Linscott was facing the lame beggar and eyeing him narrowly in the low light of the street lamps.

A shrill whistle rent the night air. There was a scuffle and several shots. A scream... then a moan. And the beggar was lying handcuffed on the ground, surrounded by Inspector Linscott and several of his men.

"Trapped, by God!" muttered the prostrate man. "Curse you!"

"Yes, my man, trapped! A trap, per trapped! High time, too!"

Then, changing his voice, Inspector Linscott turned quickly to the assisting men:

"We'll take him right down to the station. A couple of you hunt up his car and bring it around. It must be near. He's never walked any distance in his condition."

It was a sullen silent man who rode between the Inspector and one of his men in his own limousine driven by his own bewildered chauffeur, who, guided by a policeman's pistol, directed the car to Headquarters.

And it was an exultant Inspector who rode beside him.

Robin was free! He had been free for almost two months, but even in that time had not actually accustomed himself to the sense of liberty which the days of incarceration had so rudely torn from him.

The feeling of exultation remained; he walked on air, as it were, and often repeated to himself: "Free! Free! Free!"

This hot August morning he was seated at his desk in his room in Mecklenburgh Square, very much as he had been seated on that morning which seemed so long ago, when Lady Dorothy had first called on him and issued the thrilling invitation. He was writing a poem. He had written many poems, both while confined and since, as if a spurt of creativeness were released by his trouble. The reception given his last book had also acted as a stimulus. He would smile mockingly whenever anyone congratulated him on his success and remark: "It takes a sojourner in jail to make the public appreciate one's work!" But the kindly touch of the critics had really touched him more than he admitted, and he was determined to show them and the rest of the world that he could write better poems as well as the man!

He passed in his work and review in retrospect the last weeks.

He had been released the morning after the capture of Bruin Peters, alias Donald Flint, alias Morris Bentley, Lady Dorothy, accompanied by Lady Gwendolen, had met him at the jail, and he had been driven to his room in London in the same limousine which had brought him to the fatal week-end. The nightmare was over, but for Robin it would never be over. It had left an indelible impress on his mind, and from time to time he would re-live those days of humiliation and agony.

LESTER STEVENSON CALLED BY DEATH

Lester Stevenson, 35, Yellow Springs, died at a local hospital Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Death was due to complications and Mr. Stevenson had undergone an operation Monday.

He was born near Wilberforce but had lived in Yellow Springs a number of years. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Stevenson, preceded him in death. He was a member of the M. E. Church in Yellow Springs. He is survived by two brothers, Homer Stevenson, Springfield and Clark Stevenson, Yellow Springs. The body was removed to the Littleton Bros. Funeral Parlor, Yellow Springs, where funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be made in Glen Forest Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral parlors Thursday evening or Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hutsler and Mr. and Mrs. Archie Peterson spent Sunday with Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Patton at Ottawa, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kennedy and children of Springfield were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sheridan.

Mrs. Anna Riedel and Miss Una Elliott of Antioch College entertained a small company of ladies at a delightful Russian tea at the home of Mrs. Riedel Saturday afternoon and evening. Miss Elliott had received a quantity of dresses directly from Russia from a friend located in that country. The refreshments were served in Russian style according to directions sent to Miss Elliott. Preceding and following the tea delightful music and conversation were enjoyed.

Guests who enjoyed the occasion were Mrs. T. F. Laist, Mrs. Paul Jones, Mrs. Lillie Hoerr, Mrs. Emily Fisk, Miss Ann Vivian Wadsworth, Miss Alice Bingle, all of the college, and Miss Letitia Dillencourt of Xenia.

John Snyder aged 69, died at his home Tuesday evening at 7:30 after an illness of four years. He is survived by his widow who was Miss Katherine Fitzgerald before marriage, and two daughters, Mrs. Marianna Bertrand of Madison, Wis., and Miss Louise Snyder at home, a brother Daniel Snyder of Snyderville and a sister Mrs. J. S. Harsman of Springfield. Funeral services were held Friday morning at St. Paul's Church, burial in St. Paul's cemetery.

The members and friends of the Library Club enjoyed a luncheon at the Antioch Tea Room, Monday at 1 p. m. After the luncheon the meeting was in charge of Miss Helen Greene of Antioch College, who gave a talk on "A Look at England." There were about seventy-five ladies present.

The members of the Central Ohio Physics Club were entertained at Antioch College Friday and Saturday. The meetings were held in the new Science Building and opened by President Arthur Morgan. Friday afternoon over 100 students and professors were guests at Wright Flying Field, Dayton, and shown through the plant by Dr. G. F. Owen, professor of physics at Antioch. Saturday morning and afternoon the sessions were spent in discussion.

Begin Series of Plays

Inauguration of a twenty-six weeks' series of educational broadcasts, embracing the outstanding plays of all time, with the leading role enacted in many instances by the actor or actress making the individual play famous, will be started Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock over the NBC networks. The first play in the series, which carries the general title of The Radio Guild, will be the Greek tragedy, "Iphigenia in Aulis" by Euripides. Other well known plays such as "Julius Caesar," "Peer Gynt," "The Green Goddess," "The Doll's House," "Twelfth Night," "Lady Winmore's Fan," "Boys in the Trees," and many others will be presented during the twenty-six weeks' presentation.

Stagg To Predict Results

Coach Alonzo Stagg, of Chicago University and for forty years a football coach, will give a talk on football training and will predict the results of the big games this week when he is heard over Station WLW, Cincinnati, Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock. A vocal group from the University of Illinois will offer a program of college and football music on the same program.

Van Loon To Talk

Hendrik Willem Van Loon, author, editor, lecturer and war correspondent, will address the American audience from his study in Amsterdam, Holland, during an international broadcast by the Columbia Broadcasting System Friday evening. The program will be heard by Xenians through WKRC, Cincinnati, between 10 and 10:30 o'clock. Van Loon's subject will be "Diamonds."

EAST END NEWS

The meeting that has been in progress at the Main St. Christian Church for the last two weeks, closed Sunday night, having been a success spiritually and financially. Sunday was a great day, morning, afternoon and night. The pastor, Rev. Wesley Smith preached in the morning and Rev. William Owens of Dayton, O., brought the afternoon and night messages and closed his effort with a baptizing. Dinner was served at noon to a large number of friends from Xenia and Dayton, which was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Slaughter of Springfield, O., were Sunday guests at the home of Mrs. Slaughter's mother, Mrs. Susan McFarland of E. Church St.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rickman are now comfortably located in their new home, corner of Church and Evans Ave.

Prof. and Mrs. William Hargrave of Covington, Ky., were in the city, Armistice Day, calling on old friends and visiting East High and Lincoln Schools where they were former teachers.

Little Miss Ruth Garvin Sunday was hostess to a group of young girls at a six o'clock dinner. It was in honor of her birthday. A delightful dinner was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Anna Patterson, her aunt and her mother, Mrs. Dortha Johnson were responsible for the affair.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. H. L. Sayre. Adv.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. H. L. Sayre. Adv.
